Dorset inquest complete

Faulty wiring cause of fire

A one-day coroner's inquest into a fire at Dorset last March, which claimed the lives of four persons, concluded last Thursday that the deaths were due to asphyxiation caused by smoke inhalation.

The fire destroyed a one-storey wood frame bungalow owned by 34-year-old Carman Griffin, who died in the blaze along with his wife, Sharon Anne, 31, and their two children, Lillian Geraldine, 7 and Stuart Ross, 5.

An exact cause of the blaze has never been determined, but testimony at the inquest indicated faulty electrical wiring might have resulted in the fire.

A five-member coroner's jury made four recommendations at the inquest under the direction of Dr. Fennell Archdekin of Bracebridge.

They recommended it should be the responsibility of the municipality to forward a copy of all building permits to the chief inspector in the local district office of Ontario Hydro.

At the time of the Dorset fire, Sherborne, McClelland and Livingstone township, was without a building inspector, although under the Ontario Municipal Act they were obligated to employ one. The jury also recommended that all meter readers in the field should report any building alterations or additions where a building permit is not visible to the inspection department of Ontario Hydro.

Griffin had applied and received a building permit from the township for construction of a basement. He failed to apply for another permit when he built an upper story on the basement.

Another recommendation by the jury suggests Hydro embark on a public relations campaign to inform the consumer of the free hazard inspection program which the provincial agency offers.

Under the program, Hydro will inspect free of charge electrical wiring in residences.

The final recommendation of the jury was that any building permit for additions or renovations to a residence should include a clause requiring smoke detectors be installed if they have not previously existed in a home.

The five members of the jury were foreman Murray Fearney, Heather Scully, Robert Nichol, all of Haliburton, David Mowat and Robert Mann, both of R.R. #2, Minden.

Council may ask for arena revenue

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council may send letters to Somerville and Galway municipalities in Victoria and Peterborough counties requesting contributions toward minor hockey and figure skating.

Council discussed the possibility at their regular meeting Wednesday. Though nothing solid has been decided or finalized by them yet, reeve Reg Booth says the township must find some other way of charging outside counties additional revenue for use of the facility.

All groups who now use the arena are charged the same price to participate. But council raised the point that this is not fair to the ratepayers of the municipality.

"We can't let anyone from outside of the county in without paying some sort of extra fee," said Booth. "It's not our ratepayer's responsibility to provide other municipalities with entertainment and instruction."

Since costs to all hockey and figure-skating users are the same, the arena board awards deductions on township ratepayer's taxes. The move is not an effective method since there are many cottagers who use the arena far less than average residents of the township, noted councillors.

"There's no reason the kids should have to pay their way," contended Booth, "It should be the parents' responsibility."

If the letter is okayed by council, it will request that the two municipalities outside of the county to send contributions toward deferral of arena costs by outside users.

"Perhaps the parents will put some pressure on the municipalities to include the costs out of their own taxes, and then there will be no problem," said councillor Len Lonsberry.

Booth said that there should be a decision on the issue at the next regular council meeting.

T-D opens branch in Oct. at Minden

A branch of the Toronto Dominion Bank is expected to open in Minden before the end of October.

Ian Wilson, spokesman for the bank's Toronto head office, said Tuesday that the opening date will be "sometime around the third or fourth week of October."

The bank will be located in a prefabricated building on a lot facing Prince and South Water Streets.

It isn't yet known how soon construction will begin on a permanent building to be located on the same site.

Motorcycle enthusiasts invaded Haliburton County over the past weekend to participate in the 1978 Corduroy Enduro. This competitor is about to try his luck over the first 175 miles of the two-day 350-mile event. Participants left Deer Lodge starting point on both days.

Truck rolled over on him

Eagle Lake man dies in crash

A 32-year-old R.R. #1, Eagle Lake resident, Robert Campagnolo, died early last Sunday morning when the pick-up truck he was operating rolled over on County road 6 near Eagle Lake.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. R. E. Jamieson of Cobocook. A post-mortem conducted Monday in Lindsay revealed Campagnolo died of internal bleeding due to internal injuries.

He was eastbound on the county road when he drove off a curve onto the north shoulder, crossed over the south shoulder and entered the ditch, said police. His 1969 model truck rolled over several times before coming to rest on its roof.

Campagnolo, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was thrown from the vehicle, police said, which apparently rolled over on him.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $4,000.

A 21-year-old Peterboro man, Gerald D. Lazure, suffered major injury last Saturday at 2:20 p.m. in a car-motorcycle collision on north Stormy Lake road near Gooderham.

Lazure was eastbound on his 1978 model motorcycle when he collided head-on at a curve with a vehicle driven by Bradley Franklin, 34 of Oakville.

Damage to the motorcycle was estimated at $500, while the Franklin Vehicle received $700.

A Dorset resident, 69-year-old Charles H. Stoll, suffered minimal injury in a single-car accident last Sunday at 1:30 a.m. on County road 8.

Stoll was eastbound on the county road when he lost control, entered the south ditch and struck a rock cut.

He was charged with careless driving by provincial police.

An R.R. #3, Bowmanville resident, Randy Freitag, 22, was charged with failure to yield following a two-vehicle mishap last Sunday at 4:15 p.m. on Highway 121 near Kilmount.

Freitag entered Highway 121 from an intersecting road and failed to yield to a southbound vehicle driven by Glen W. Parks, 40 of Oshawa, Ontario. Parks lost control of his vehicle on the west shoulder while avoiding a collision with Freitag, entered the east ditch and struck an embankment.

INCO vice-president says

Joint effort needed to control pollution

A more sophisticated approach, based on better scientific understanding and on international co-operation, is required to control environmental pollution in Ontario, says INCO vice-president Dr. J. Stuart Warner.

A problem that is complex and international in scope cannot be solved by simplistic measures taken in Ontario, he told The Echo in a telephone interview from his Toronto office last Thursday.

Dr. Warner was commenting on remarks made by Dr. Tom Brydges of the Ministry of the Environment in a speech September 7 to members of the Haliburton Rotary Club. Dr. Brydges' remarks were carried in a front page story in the September 13 issue of The Echo.

The ministry official told Rotarians INCO is not the major source of air pollutants which are affecting the Haliburton Highlands in the form of acid rain. He explained acid rain can occur from industrial pollution which originates from as far away as 1,000 miles. He said sources of industrial pollution in the United States, such as Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, are affecting the province.

"I think what you have to do is get both sides (Canada and the United States) to the bargaining table," suggested Dr. Warner, a PhD in extractive metallurgical engineering.

He disagreed with Dr. Brydges about the emission figures he quoted in his speech. "The figures he used are not true any longer," he revealed. Dr. Brydges said INCO is emitting 1.3 million tons of sulphur oxide a year or 3,600 tons a day.

Emissions from INCO operations at Sudbury are less than 1-million tons a year now or about 2,500 tons a day, remarked Dr. Warner. When the operations were shut down recently for six and seven-week periods, he said, emissions will even less.

He said the information used by the ministry official is "technically correct", but he is concerned with the general public's interpretation of the emission figures.

"We are not the source of acid rain," he told The Echo.

INCO, he said, has been and is continuing to reduce the amount of emissions from its operations. In 1971, INCO had emissions of 7,600 tons a day.

"Nobody ever gives us credit for our contributions to pollution control," he contended. "We're five to six years ahead of schedule as far as pollution control is concerned," he added, "yet we are considered the 'Everest of Polluters'."

Ministry of the Environment has given the company until 1982 to reduce its emissions to 750 tons a day.

Dr. Warner claims Ontario Hydro is a larger source of air pollution than INCO.

Acid rainfall occurs when rain falling through polluted air is turned into a mild form of sulphuric and nitric acid. It has been falling in Haliburton and Muskoka since the mid-1950's.

Environment ministry information reveals that of the total amount of acid rain falling in the area, 22 per cent of the total originated from a northerly direction while 78 per cent comes from other wind directions.

"The possibility of INCO contributing all of it (the 22 per cent) is unreasonable," claimed Dr. Warner.

He said it is very difficult to determine the exact source of air pollution.

Controversy over the acid rain problem surfaced when a front page story appeared in the Toronto Star last June about the effect of the acid rain in the Haliburton and Muskoka region.

Area tourist operators report their business has not been affected by stories written about acid rain.

AHM updates Minden park

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council approved last Wednesday the major portion of a general plan for updating of the 87-acre Minden Park.

The plan is the first part of a master plan, being compiled by Toronto planning consultants Totten, Sims and Hubicki. The park, located east of Bobcaygeon Road and north of the Gull River, is expected to be completed in October. The layout plan for the park has already been completed and council is now waiting for the updated master plan by the firm so funds, through the provincial Parks Assistance Act, can be gathered.

"We need the finished plan before we can get the grant," reeve Reg Booth told the consulting firm's representative, Rob Norman, "that's the way it is."

Confusion arose over exactly what the plan presented by Totten, Sims and Hubicki was to accomplish. Norman explained the plan he presented to council, "was general and the master plan would be started after this has been approved."

"We simply asked for an engineer's report to get the grant," Booth said, "so we could have recommendations about drainage and other specifics."

Council had understood that the specifics were to be presented at the meeting. However, Norman said the general plan was the initial "starting point" of the master plan.

Some of the recommendations mentioned in the analysis consisted of buffering zones, parking facilities, location of the proposed horse-racing track and additional tennis courts, which were to be added to the existing courts.

Council disagreed with this aspect of the plan, wishing the horse track to be moved in the plan to an alternate location, since the track would take up a considerable amount of park space.

"Perhaps we are spoiling the park for the sake of the horse track," said Booth.

"To my mind, if the track is run commercially, it should be a separate entity," he added.

Double tennis courts, which were also planned, will be moved in the presented plan also for the same reason.

Minden resident enjoys wood-inlaying hobby creating inlaid lamps, jewellery boxes, and serving trays

Old country techniques, a steady hand, and much patience are the ingredients John Klym of Minden uses to create works of inlaid lamps, jewellery boxes, serving trays, and just about anything else his imagination can come up with.

The 59-year-old semi-retired construction worker does the wood-inlaying as a hobby, which he says is a lot of fun and relaxing. There's a lot of work involved in wood inlaying, as most people know, and no one realizes that any more than Klym does.

"But I wouldn't be doing it if I didn't like it," said Klym. Klym began his delicate hobby when he was 14 years old and living in "the old country", the Ukraine. His father was a professional furniture maker and inlayer, and taught the skills at a boy's craft school in the village. Klym took his training there, and at the end of the five year program, he was a skilled craftsman himself and could do inlay work with the best inlayers.

He discontinued his wood-working for some time after the war ended however, and it wasn't until 30 years later, when he moved to Niagara Falls in 1967, that he started putting his knowledge of inlaying back to work.

Klym said that he and his wife, Mary, could not afford the hobby. Equipment costs were expensive, and Klym

"was too busy making a living."

But when he started working at the hobby once again, he found that he could afford it, and time was not as hard to find as it had been in the past. Sonn, people heard of Klym's work, and offers to purchase some of it began to come in after the Klyms moved to Minden in 1971.

Because the work involved in the hobby is so painstaking and time absorbing, Klym sells his products for between $200 and $500, depending on the size and complexity of the piece. Though the prices may sound expensive at first Klym says the amount of time and effort he puts into a jewellery box or a lamp, "makes it worth it. A lamp takes six days to make at nine hours a day," and Klym will sell one for $250.

"But I'm not taking orders right now - I've got enough and I want a little bit of a holiday," he said jokingly.

Currently, Klym has $2000 worth of orders to work on. He had a small exhibit in Hamilton, and his advertising is actually no advertising at all.

"People will come to see what I have made at my house and ask to have one built similar to the one I have in my home. Then they will tell others what I do, and then their friends come," he said.

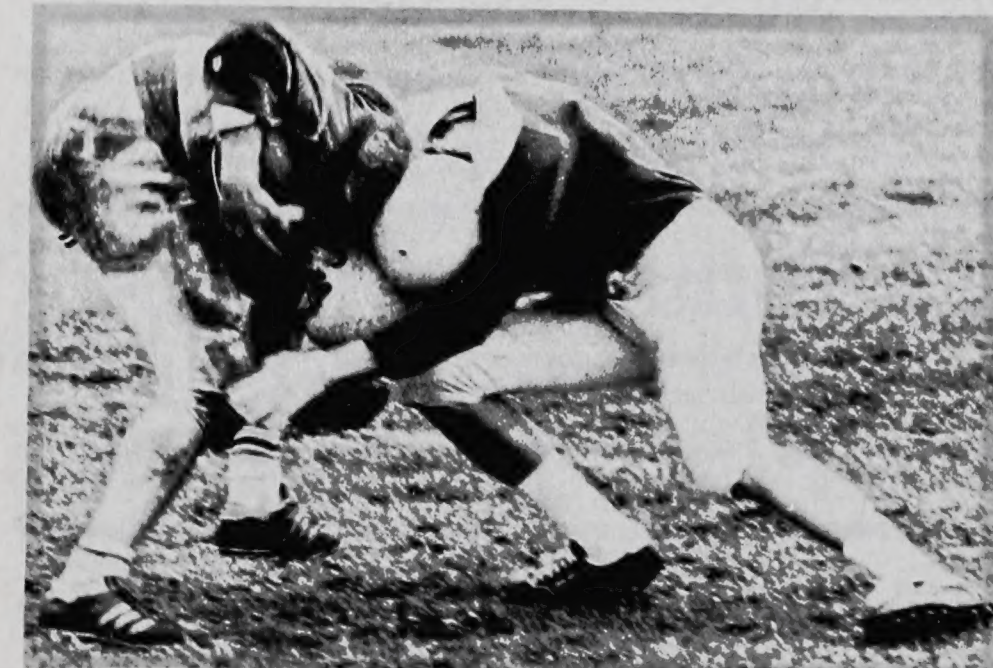

Patience is the key word in inlay work, said Klym.

"If the chisel slips and a piece falls off, you feel like throwing the whole thing away and starting over."

Inlaying involves either chiseling or cutting out small pieces of wood from the piece being worked on, and placing and gluing either brightly coloured plastic or attractive dark veneer wood in the gaps. Copper wire and tiny beads are also some other elements.

Klym inserts the inlays. Eventually, the box, lamp or tray will have brightly coloured patterns inlaid into them. All designs, he says, are from his own imagination.

Heads butt at the Redmen practice held Monday at Haliburton High School. Coach Brohman is optimistic with the team this year. "They've got enthusiasm plus" he said.

Patience is the key word in inlay work

Because of the highly specialized work involved in the hobby, Klym said he has made many of his own tools with which to cut or chisel. But he says he would like to pass his knowledge on to others about both making the tools and inlaying.

"The highschool in Haliburton has a beautiful shop with lots of equipment. If somebody asked me to instruct inlaying in the shop, I wouldn't refuse," he said.

Inlaying, adds Klym, is not seen around the province as much as other crafts are, and work of the type he does cannot be found in department stores or other outlets "because nobody can supply it."

With increased knowledge in the area, more inlay work could become available because, says Klym, "people love it." They want more and more - I just can't supply everybody."

Year ago, however, Klym said that people would not purchase inlayed work because they couldn't afford it. Now, he says, despite the inflationary factors, "people have more money and are spending it on luxury items or things they like. Today's generation won't have as many kids as there were 15 or 20 years ago, and have more money in the bank. Look in an antique store at the prices. Nobody bought antiques 15 years ago, but they are today."

In fact, adds Klym, no one tries to bargain with him. "They just ask how much and ask for one to be built," he said.

Klym goes strictly by eye when he is cutting an inlay or trying to match another cut off the lathe. A steady hand is essential, he said, and if he were to teach someone the craft, he would have to demonstrate and lecture as he worked on the piece.

"I'd have to show you how to work the lathe and tell you why I'm doing something. I would be the only way."

"I've always been working hard," he said, "and after I get them (inlays) done, they'll last a lifetime."

Stanhope township council sets Meet Candidates night

Stanhope township council is the first municipal body to set a date for a 'Meet the Candidates' night.

Township ratepayers can receive a preview of the candidates running in the upcoming municipal elections to be conducted in November.

Council selected Saturday, October 28 at 8 p.m. for the gathering.

In other business at its September 6 meeting, council:

- authorized the road superintendent to attend the 1978 Road School to be held at Huntsville, October 23 and 24

- and authorized the clerk to forward the required $22 registration fee.

- requested county council approach the Ministry of Transportation and Communications with a view to changing provincial policy to accommodate reasonable severance applications involving land fronting on Highway 35.

- advised Stan Dawson the selling price of the 60-foot property to the east of the township property is $5,460, plus associated legal, surveying and appraisal costs.

- acknowledged the receipt of a letter from John Middleton granting approval to construct a drainage ditch on the easterly side of the Airport road fronting on the west side of Lot 31, Concession VI, Stanhope township.

- approved payments of $5,437.38 under the Young Canada Works Program and the Experience '78 Program.

- acknowledged receipt of a copy of the amended by-laws dated August 31, 1978, governing the Haliburton-Stanhope Municipal airport and approved the amendments.

- approved general accounts totalling $7,980.21, July welfare totalling $1,046 and road voucher number 8 of $35,407.98.

- authorized a by-law to submit a liquor question to township ratepayers.

Dysart supports vandalism resolution

Dysart township council supports a move by the town of Trenton to have more teeth put into current legislation to curb the present widespread rise in vandalism in Ontario.

Trenton, which is circulating the resolution to all municipalities in Ontario, wants federal and provincial attorneys-general to hold a meeting of elected officials from the three levels of government and police officials to discuss changes in the law "that would provide heavier penalties as well as restitution to the victims of vandalism."

It urges all citizens to support their police departments by reporting acts of vandalism and being prepared to act as witnesses if they observe such acts being committed.

Acts of vandalism have caused problems in Haliburton.

Boice Motor Sales was forced last week to permanently close its car wash due to vandalism. Manager Brant Stamp told The Echo, parts were stolen off vehicles parked on his lot. He operated a three-bay self-serve facility.

Correction

The girl pictured on the front page of last week's Echo resting after completing the Gooderham Park Fund walk-athon last Saturday was Cammie Hillis, not Tammy Titus.

Tammy Titus, 8, who was not pictured, was the youngest participant to complete the full 12 mile distance.

The Echo regrets the error.

A typographical error appeared in the Maple Lake news column in last week's issue. In a paragraph offering congratulations to ACW members who donated items to the Minden flower show it was noted that "special mention must be made of Mrs. Phrona Sisson who so skillfully arranged the display." This was an error and should have read, "Miss Phrona Sisson."

The Echo regrets any confusion the error may have caused.

Self-Government

Better co-operation among regulating bodies is needed to ensure government regulations, designed to save lives, are properly administered.

A 'Big Brother' mentality is not the answer. What's needed is a self-governing attitude, which allows a person his individual freedom, yet makes him aware that regulations are designed to protect him. Individuals should stop looking to governments to take care of them. They should become more involved in the governing process by finding out what rules and regulations effect them and by respecting the constraints those rules and regulations impose.

Seatbelt legislation for example has made it mandatory to wear a seatbelt while in a motor vehicle in Ontario. Ministry of Transportation and Communications research shows a significant reduction in deaths from traffic accidents since the regulation came into effect. Other provinces and states have also created similar legislation.

Yet individuals choose to ignore the legislation and in so doing, refuse to co-operate in the governing process.

Testimony given during a coroner's inquest last Thursday into the death of four persons in a fire in Dorset indicated faulty electrical wiring might have resulted in the blaze, which destroyed a single family dwelling.

Recommendations arising from the inquest could serve to improve communications and foster better co-operation between governing bodies.

The jury recommended municipalities be responsible for forwarding a copy of all building permits to the chief inspector in the local district office of Ontario Hydro.

At the time of the Dorset fire, the municipality of Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone was without a building inspector, although under the Ontario Municipal Act it was obligated to employ such a person.

Municipalities must do their part in co-operating with other governing bodies if the system is to work to the benefit of all concerned.

Other recommendations reached at the inquest appear designed to further strengthen communications and increase safety regulations. The jury also recommended that all meter readers in the field should report any building alterations or additions where a building permit is not visible to the inspection department of Hydro. Any building permit for additions or renovations to a residence should include a clause requiring that smoke detectors be installed if they have not previously existed in a home, the jury decided.

If acted upon, the recommendations would serve to further protect the individual and increase the safety factor in projects undertaken by home owners.

If better co-operation had existed early this year, four lives might have been spared.

Restitution

Provincial corrections minister Frank Drea has an excellent approach to curbing in the widespread vandalism problem currently effecting Ontario residents. He suggests offenders be compelled by the courts to make restitution through community service.

The city of Trenton which is circulating a resolution among Ontario municipalities calling for stiffer legislation, has taken the initiative in deciding to get municipal councils to co-operate. Dysart council last week gave support to the Trenton resolution.

The resolution wants federal and provincial attorneys-general to hold a meeting of elected officials from the three levels of government and police officials to discuss changes in the law "that would provide heavier penalties as well as restitution to the victims of vandalism." It urges all citizens to support their police departments by reporting acts of vandalism and being prepared to act as witnesses if they observe such acts being committed.

Vandalism has left Haliburton County without a facility for motorists to wash their motor vehicles. Boice Motors has been forced to permanently close its car wash operation due to vandalism. The closure, not only means a loss of business for the firm, but has created an inconvenience to the community at large.

Vandalism has wide ranging effects. It leaves victims frustrated and in almost all cases the victims must bear the cost of repairs.

Restitution through community service would restore a victim's faith in regulations governing his community and could make every member of the community feel responsible for reporting acts of vandalism which they witness. Offenders would be repaying the community upon which they inflicted their misdeeds.

Drea's approach will work if the general public supports a plan of restitution.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

RE: your Sept. 13 editorial entitled "A Warning".

The subject of your editorial was indeed important, and some valid points were covered, however, I feel you have mis-branded people, and implied a possible lack of initiative on the part of the business community.

As I was one of the persons "surveyed", I feel I must contest the content of your article.

I am mystified that you would condemn local business people for not attempting to offer more and/or better products and services to the public. I have lived in this area for less than two years and have witnessed considerable change and betterment - efforts which have obviously been made to update and improve service facilities - and the by-product has been a more attractive shopping area. Some examples which come to mind are: The Driftwood Restaurant - extensive remodelling; Mike's Milk - relocation to improved quarters; Barber Shop - outside building improvement; Red & White - relocation to improved quarters; Elstone Motors - complete exterior facelift; I.G.A. - relocation to improved quarters.

Here in Lochlin, we too have incorporated changes and modifications (albeit on a smaller scale than the above) in an effort to meet consumer requirements and thus achieve greater sales. If you were to investigate, I think you would find everyone is trying to improve; be it a little, or a lot, with the same common goal in mind.

Perhaps the reserved attitude of those surveyed reflects a temperament of modesty as opposed to one of egotism. Would your comments have been equally harsh had some of those surveyed said: "Business was great, and so it should be - we spent X dollars on Y improvements - we deserve it."

Thank you for the opportunity to air my views on this subject.

Yours truly,
Burt A. Smith

To the Editor:

RE: The article "Former Officials Won't be Charged", September 6, 1978.

Your reference in this article to Deputy Reeve Ronald Gambell, is quite wrong.

The former Reeve, Patrick Conaghan, initiated the investigation into the Lutterworth Municipal telephone bills for 1977.

I was called to the Lutterworth Municipal office on the 20th of January 1978 this year, about mid-day, in regard to revelations appearing in the telephone bills. The former Reeve, Conaghan and Ronald Gambell were present. Following a brief resume about the irregularities being discovered, I asked who noted the apparent abuses of the telephone credit cards. Mr. Conaghan immediately claimed responsibility.

Sincerely,
Glynn Lewis

Editor's Notebook

by Len Pizze

Phone calls that come in the wee small hours of the morning can do strange things to your mind.

Drrring! ...I hear a phone. It can't be a phone. It's a phone ringing in my dream. Drrring! ...No, it's a real phone. It's my phone. It must - Drrring! - be a wrong number. What time is it? Oh, damn, it's 3:30 in the morning. Who would be calling at Drrring! - 3:30 in the morning? Maybe if I forget it, it will go away. It can't ring forever. Drrring! If it's important, they'll call back. For sure. Drrring! Groan. Somebody must have died. I'd better answer it. Drrring! Okay, okay, I'm coming. Bang! Oooww. I knew-I should have shut that dresser drawer. Now where's the light switch. Drrring! Fumble, clunk, click, ooohh, it's so bright! Drrring!

By this time my heart was pounding like it would break through my chest. Drrring! Just a couple more steps to go. Hello. Hello? Click. Buzzzz.

It was last Tuesday night, or rather Wednesday morning, and by the time I got to the phone I knew it wasn't about a family problem. I knew it was about the paper. Something was wrong with the paper. But what? And who called?

Visions of all sorts of disasters floated before my eyes. We forgot a headline. Right on the front page it will say 60 Point Head-60 Point Head - instead of "Ministry contends INCO not major cause of acid." Or maybe it's a picture. We've forgotten a picture. Instead of a photograph there'll be a blank space where it should have gone. But I checked all the pictures, and I'm sure they were there. So what could it be?

There was no way of knowing, so I went back to sleep, fitfully, expecting that another call would come in a few minutes.

The call never came. I was lucky. Echo reporter Joe Banks, however, wasn't so lucky, and neither was Susan Brohm. Susan, you see, looks after circulation and some advertising duties at the Echo, and helps to lay out many of the back pages of the paper. She also makes out the final instructions that accompany the completed page layouts to the printing plant in Bracebridge, where they are photographed, burned onto thin metal plates and attached to the presses that print the newspaper. She puts her phone number on the instructions in case something goes wrong. And if it does, the plant calls her. So it was Susan who got the call at about 3:20 last Wednesday morning telling her that a picture for one of the inside pages and three pictures for advertisements were missing. What to do? Well, she called me, since the ultimate responsibility for the finished paper has to be mine. But I was slow to answer the phone, and by the time I got to it, she had given up. Joe Banks though, was quicker to answer, and Festacolor '78 is set for this Saturday at the Dysart Community Arena at Haliburton. It's being sponsored by the Haliburton Kinsmen Club and will feature two dance bands, "The Drag River Band" and the "Rivals". Non-stop music from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are still available for the Jeep-Gremlin Draw. On Sunday there will be a Turkey Supper at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall sponsored by the Haliburton Figure Skating Club. We hope that everyone will support these events this weekend and you will have the opportunity to have a good time, meet your friends and dance to your hearts content. It would appear to me that the promotion of Festacolor in the Highlands of Haliburton leaves a great deal to be desired. My remarks have no bearing on the Kinsmen Club who gave it a great try last year and had a great many events lined up but they were poorly attended. Previous to this the Rotary Club of Haliburton tried it for a few years and put a great deal of effort into it but found that financially it was not a paying proposition and that it wasn't worth all the work that had gone into it. Festacolor should be a big fall attraction here and it would seem to us that if this is to be so it is going to take an all out combined effort of the Kinsmen Club, Rotary Club and Lions Club. The Chamber of Commerce should also become heavily involved in Festacolor instead of sitting back and waiting for everyone else to do the work. It all boils down to this, let's either get into Festacolor in a big way or get out of it.

As you noticed in last week's paper Dominion Department Store are having a Quitting Business Sale. Prices are being slashed and all merchandise must be sold. There is hardly a person in Haliburton and surrounding area who doesn't feel bad that Grant Rae who has operated this business for many years is leaving the main street. Grant, as we all know, is one of the best liked businessmen on the main street and without a doubt would have very little trouble in winning the Citizen of the Year award. There just aren't too many men of the calibre of Grant Rae around. He was a man who did business in the community and did a lot for the community. When the businessmen would take on a project or if they had a problem that needed to be solved, Grant was always one of the main leaders to step in and do his part. He was and still is heavily involved in community affairs right from the bottom to the top. A former member of the Rotary Club in which he was quite active, member of the Community Centres Board, he is still very active in youth work with the scouts, cubs and minor hockey. We can ill afford to lose a progressive businessman from the main street line, Grant, but we wish him the best of luck in whatever new business he undertakes and you can rest assured that when a helping hand is needed Grant will still be there.

We should all try to help out the Haliburton District Association for the Mentally Retarded. We can do this in many ways but one way is with our financial help. A yellow envelope will be reaching you soon with a Crocus Bulb keeping with the theme of Flowers of Hope. Please send in your donation as soon as possible.

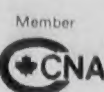

In every centre in Haliburton County there are a group of citizens who reside in a community and one would hardly know that they live here if we didn't happen to notice their names on the voters lists. They could even move away and no one would miss them. The people we are talking about are the few who sit back and take no part in community affairs. They don't belong to any organization, they give to nothing, they attend very few events in the community and in other words, they are a lost cause. These same people who put nothing back into the community are usually the first to kick about anything that may be done. The so-called citizens we are talking about are the first to complain about the council or any organization which is out for the betterment of their community in which they live. These people are against progress in any form and they will knock it at every opportunity. They must be ignored if we are to get ahead.

It would appear to us that the Highlands of Haliburton never receives the publicity and news coverage which they so rightly deserve. We always seem to be the forgotten county. How many times on radio and TV do you hear about Muskoka and other tourist areas, but very seldom a mention of the Highlands of Haliburton. I think that we would be shocked if a survey was taken for instance in the City of Toronto. Most people live there and just think we are just 140 miles away, and they have never heard of the Haliburton Highlands.

It is really gratifying to note just how well the Salvation Army in Haliburton is supported. People from all parts of the county support it financially every May when the Salvation Army Red Shield campaign is on. Every day when I walk back and forth to work I can't help but notice the bags of used clothing that are left at the back door of the Salvation Army Hall that can be given to needy families or sold at one of their rummage sales.

Haliburton County council's planning committee predicts a growth rate in the county of about 1.5 per cent a year over the next 10 to 15 years. And "unless there is a stimulant to economic growth, there is no justification in predicting an accelerated growth rate." In fact the committee says, it considers the 1.5 per cent growth estimate to be "optimistic." Whoopie! Isn't this certainly something to look forward to? If this is our future well maybe it's about time we all thought of moving out. But let's face reality and quit kidding ourselves. At the present time we are going nowhere. We are trying to struggle along here on a two months economy and it can't be done. We must all be on the lookout for something else that is going to give us a well balanced year around economy. We keep telling ourselves we can't get this or we can't get that, and it's all because we are not trying hard enough. Unless we bring something into this county that's going to give people more jobs 12 months of the year we are going to be sitting in the same position that we find ourselves in today.

From the Chamber

by Bob Stinson

Merv Robertson a Founding Member

The history of this Chamber of commerce goes back beyond its incorporation to the original Haliburton Highlands Tourist Association. When Merv Robertson gave up a school teaching career to take over his late brother's responsibilities at Wig-A-Mog Inn he immediately became involved in that Association.

On May 20th, 1953 a group of concerned resort operators including Merv Robertson, met with other members of the business community to merge their interests into what was then, and still is, the only county-wide Chamber of Commerce in Ontario. Merv was constantly involved in one way or another with the Chamber throughout the following years even after Wig-A-Mog was sold. He also served the resort industry on the board of A.T.R.O. or Resorts Ontario as it is now known.

One of Merv's pet projects was the Haliburton Tartan and he was instrumental in obtaining a registered Tartan, and doing much of the promotion of it on behalf of the Highlands.

In addition to the Chamber, Merv was also a charter member of the Haliburton Rotary Club, served as president in 1948-1949, and was chairman of their Crippled Childrens Committee for many years. The club had just created an honorary membership in appreciation of his many years of service.

The Chamber, the community, and this county as a whole owes much to the efforts of Merv Robertson and we should sincerely respect the results of those efforts. May he rest in peace in the knowledge that this world is a better place for his having been here.

C.O.T.A. Re-organizes

At a meeting last week of the board of directors of the Central Ontario Travel Association in Peterborough, the resignation of the manager, George Coling was submitted, along with that of President Bob Kennedy. Mr. Coling's letter indicated that he had received an opportunity for a better job elsewhere and Mr. Kennedy cited business commitments as his reasons for not being able to complete his term of office.

At this point, our president Dennis Casey, who has been serving as Secretary-Treasurer on the board announced that he expected to be located in Elliot Lake for about one year and therefore could not complete his term of office.

The directors then proceeded to set up a new executive consisting of George Lyons (Highlands of Hastings) President, Bob Anthony (Quinte Isle) 1st Vice President, Jack Richards (Great Pine Ridge) 2nd Vice President and Bill Smith (Haliburton) Secretary-Treasurer. Interviews will be held shortly by the executive to select a new manager.

The ministry has indicated a far greater emphasis on allowing the Travel Association to run its own program with a minimum of interference and the directors are optimistic about the future at this time.

Many of our members will by now have received a mailing regarding advertising in the C.O.T.A. magazine. This program has been approved by our delegates to the organization, and it is hoped that some advertising support can be provided from our area without jeopardizing our own "Lure Book" efforts.

Ride and Dance

Larry McKnight called to advise us that on September 28th in co-operation with John Deere they will be hosting a "Ride and Drive Lawn and Grounds care Demonstration" featuring equipment of all types and sizes. They expect this should be of interest to not only farmers but lodge owners and municipal officials as well.

Our Trip

There's probably only one thing more boring than being forced to watch slides of someone else's holiday jaunt, and that is having to listen to them tell about it. But if you think that you are going to get away with only two columns about "our trip," you might as well turn over to the real estate ads right now, gentle reader.

Not after I spent all that money. I've had two long distance calls and a letter in the past 10 days from the Charex people. Seems we went over our limit by about double, and the bills are still coming in. Oh well, that's inflation.

On a trip like ours, it's probably a good idea to take notes, or keep a diary. I never do this; too interested in people and places to try to put them down. Tried to keep it all in my head, in pictures. Result: for 10 days after we got home I couldn't sleep, with all those pictures, hopelessly mixed, flashing through my mind.

When you hit eight countries in 14 days, it's more like low-flying than an in-depth study of the treasures of Europe. But it's amazing what you can and do see and experience.

For the average traveller who is not an art expert, there is serious danger of picking up a couple of diseases, cathedralitis and basilicatis. The symptoms are similar. If you see a person with head cricked right back, and mouth open, he's probably just back from Europe.

While the cathedrals are awesome in their structure and art work, they tend to make you feel like a very small minnow in a very large ocean. And probably that's what they're supposed to do. We were in the largest and third largest in the world, in Rome and Florence, both designed by Michelangelo, and I don't care if I never see another. They make you humble in the face of the patience, the reverence, and the genius that went into their creation.

And we saw a lot of famous works of art: the Venus de Milo, a stocky broad with no arms; the Mona Lisa, looking anything by enigmatic behind six layers of bullet-proof glass. It was no more thrill than looking at a good colour photo of them in an art book.

But that's not the sort of thing you remember from a trip. You remember the highlights and the human relations, the bad moments and the exalted ones.

Like going through the Dolomites, a range of mountains so forbidding they make the Rockies look genial, in a rainstorm, the driver inching around hairpin turns.

Or a magnificent summer evening with good wine, good food, good music, good friends, on a balcony overlooking the beautiful Tivoli gardens, outside Rome.

Or wandering around the Mont Martre in Paris, haunt of famous writers and artists over the years, watching the painters at work, haggling over a picture, maybe having your portrait done in 10 minutes.

Or being kicked off the grass in Monte Carlo by a surly Monaco cop. Or hustling through the rain in Heidelberg, trying to buy superlatives with your scanty German.

Or sitting on your balcony in Lucerne, wondering what the poor folks were doing, as you looked over the lake to the mountains.

Or admiring the lady of the streets, who saw us gawking at her as she leaned against a building, turned her back, flipped up her skirt, no pants on, some of the bolder spirits told me. I, of course, had covered my hand with my eyes, or something like that.

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

Recently our Caucus held a policy conference on the "Challenge for the 80's: Changing Needs and Limited Resources", the purpose of which was to bring together Caucus members, leading authorities in major policy fields and community leaders for in-depth discussions of some of the major issues facing the Province of Ontario. Participants in the Conference were divided into four "Theme Groups" on (a) "Trends in Society: Human Relations"; (b) "Building a Competitive Society: Industrial Strategy"; (c) Role of Government: Controlling Big Brother"; and (d) "Living with the Planet: Conserver Society".

Ryerson President Walter Pitman was the keynote speaker for the first group on human relations. He stressed the fact that we need to change our expectations for the future. "We are not going to see the style of the '50's and '60's again. For the obvious reason - a lack of energy, a realization that we must conserve our non-renewable resources, a recognition that there is no "technological fix" which will heat up a massive growth syndrome once again." We must always bear in mind the reality of "our finite, fragile universe", and recognize "the most obvious human psychological and spiritual needs which have been battered by the social effects of the industrial revolution".

"The word which leaps out is that of 'appropriateness' - to the human needs in the context of a restrained, more sensitive, more intellectual and spiritual environment."

Walter Pitman referred to this concept as the "Politics of Lifestyle as opposed to the Politics of Ideology", stressed the need to use a "horizontal" rather than a "vertical" approach to problem solving - equating vertical with rigid adherence to division of problems by Ministry, "pollution in one box, industrial growth and development in another", etc. We must accept fully our pluralistic society, give everyone a sense of belonging and making a contribution. It's important to work within the context of the family, the neighbourhood and the community, and a "part of the work-style will be the emphasis not only on a healthy workplace but one which is psychologically satisfying. He stressed that "conserver society" is not another way of saying 21st Century Dark Ages.

In this group, background papers were presented for discussion by Ted Harvey, Professor of Sociology at the University of Toronto - on "Labour Force: Patterns, Problems, Policies"; Bruce McLeod, Former Vice-Chairman of the Ontario Human Rights Commission on "Racism and Prejudice"; Gail Newall, Family Counsellor in the Region of Durham on "Family and Social Relationships"; and Marvyn Novick, Senior Program Director of the Social Planning Council of Metropolitan Toronto on "Demand for Services".

Mr. McLeod pointed out "The so-called 'new' immigration is not new. Between 1896 and 1914, three million immigrants were invited to come here to build our railroads, dig our sewers and settle our land...5000 East Indians lived in Canada by 1921. There are seventy languages or dialects spoken within one mile of Toronto's City Hall." We are the world in miniature, and we have great opportunity to lead the way. The Ontario Human Rights Code is already out-dated: fourteen months ago a gull scale revision was presented to the Provincial Government. People say "you can't legislate morality": to some extent, we can. Interpreting "prejudice" as attitude, "discrimination" as action, he stressed the need to rejoice in our diversity, to speak up, and quickly, about discrimination, to codify attitudes, and ensure equality of access to opportunity.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was very pleased to see that The Echo was aware of the improvement in the track facilities at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. However, I would like to add the following information to that published in your paper on September 13, 1978.

Project Track was started in 1964 by the Girls' Athletic Association, under the direction of Mrs. Elaine Burt, and was terminated in 1974. During that period of time, $3,200, was raised by the girls and donated to the School Board.

So, thanks to the girls who attended H.H.S.S. during the years 1964-1974 for their fund raising efforts, which along with the Board's contribution resulted in the fine track facilities we have today.

Yours truly,
J. Douglas Hodgson

Coach says team has "Enthusiasm plus"

HHSS Redmen kick off season

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School football team, the Redmen, will be kicking off their season Thursday night and coach Gary Brohman says this year's squad is filled with "enthusiasm plus."

The team, which won the Kawartha West championships last year, has been practising since the first week of school, preparing for their first game of the season against Brock High School in Cannington Thursday afternoon.

Brohman says that some 58 players turned out for tryouts and practice originally, and only on one occasion has there been less than 54 players at the practices since then.

"I'm optimistic about this team," said Brohman.

Returning players to the Redmen will consist of Roger Hicks, defensive tackle, Bill Hogg, defensive tackle, Mike Isles, linebacker, Peter Johnson, guard, Fraser Newton, defensive tackle, Ed Roberts, mid-guard and offensive end, Andy Anderson, defensive back, Kirk Potter, defensive back, Scott Valentine, centre, Paul Watson, offensive guard, Ronny Yake, defensive back and Dan Allison, linebacker.

The starting lineup for the Redmen for Thursday's game will consist of the following players: Ed Roberts, offensive end, Bill Hogg, tackle, Paul Watson, guard, Scott Valentine, centre, Peter Johnson, guard, Casey Cox, tackle, Keith Harrison, end, Tim Davies, quarterback, Jamie Rogers and Butch Manery will be the fullbacks, Dave Pratt and Scott Arbuthnot will be the halfbacks, Andy Anderson and Chris Hodgson the defensive ends, Fraser Newton and Roger Hicks the tackles, Ed Roberts, middle guard, Ron Yake, safety, Kirk Potter, defensive halfback, and inside linebackers will consist of Mike Isles and Danny Allison.

Coach Brohman says the outside linebackers have yet to be chosen for the season opener.

The club will be playing their first home game on Thursday, September 28 when Fenelon Falls will be travelling to Haliburton to battle the Redmen. Other future home games will see Lindsay at Haliburton on October 12, and Brock visiting on October 24. A junior varsity home game will be played on October 16 against Brock.

Starting times for the games will be at 2 p.m.

Maybe the Toronto Blue Jays should consider sending a scout to Haliburton to watch the female talent display their baseball skills. This Carnarvon player is certainly keeping her eye on the ball.

MHA registration held September 29

Registration for the 1978/79 season of the Haliburton Minor Hockey Association will be held September 29 from 7 to 9 p.m. and September 30 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Haliburton Arena.

The fee schedule for this year has remained the same as last year. Children 8 years of age and under as of Jan. 1, 1979 - $10.00; 9 years of age and over - $15.00; Family rate for two or more children - $30.00.

Registration forms will be handed out to the players September 25 and will also be available at the arena on both registration days.

Seasons tickets will be available also at last year's price of $10. This ticket allows the whole family admission to all Haliburton Minor Hockey games throughout the regular season.

It is essential that any players having team sweaters, team equipment or goal equipment from last year return this during the days of registration so that it can be made ready for this year's action.

Anyone wishing to donate their time, effort and talents to the minor hockey association are asked to contact either Len Salvatori, Doug Mitchell or Roy Scott at 457-2403.

We require coaches, managers, referees and time keepers.

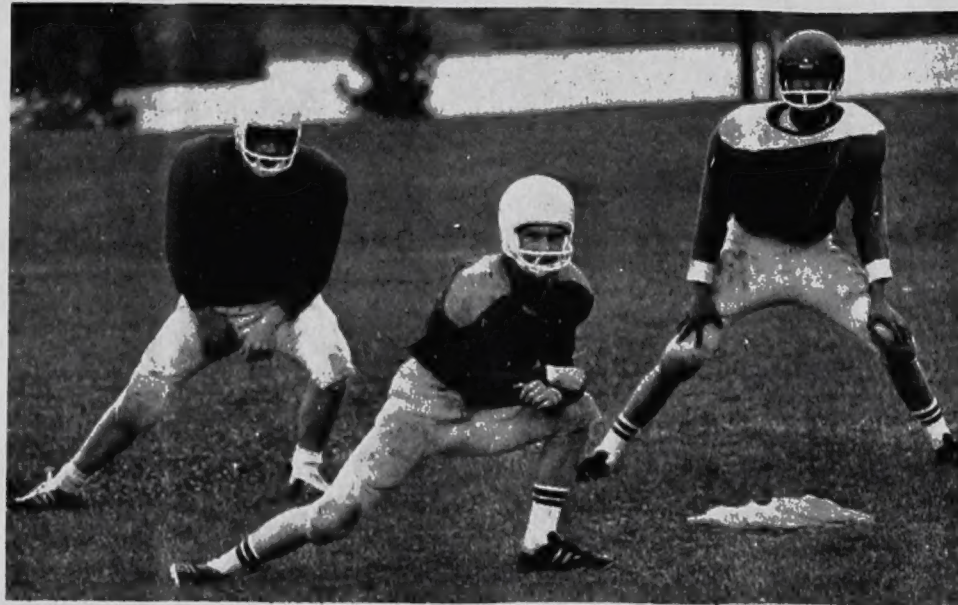

Bird seasons to open soon

Hunting season in the central region of Ontario for ruffed grouse and waterfowl birds begins Saturday, September 23 and will last until December 15.

Big game season will begin November 6 and lasts until November 11 for moose and deer.

The deer population in the central region is on the increase, according to figures recorded by the provincial Ministry of Natural Resources.

The H.H.S.S. Redmen took to the field Monday for an afternoon of practice, despite rainy weather and cool temperatures. The team will be starting the season Thursday when they visit Cannington to take on Brock High School.

Rick Wood will coach Huskies

Rick Wood will once again coach the Ontario Hockey Association (OHA) Jr. B. Haliburton Huskies this coming season.

Wood, who started his coaching responsibilities last year, is expected to be coaching a "good team" said Haliburton hockey official Bill Davis.

Though the Huskies have not been selected yet, tryouts will be starting during the third week of October. The season itself will get underway the first of November.

There is a possibility that Colbourne will not be competing this year, cutting the number of teams in the league to six. The team has had problems securing a sponsor and the team's officials are no longer with the club.

If Colbourne remains out of the schedule, Haliburton will play 13 home games and 12 road matches. If the club remains, the schedule will be similar to last year's.

The OHA all-star game will once again be held in December with the first place team with a balanced schedule facing-off against the best of the division. The first place squad will have the advantage of home ice in the match.

Bowling season opens with wins

Kay Barry began a new season of bowling on a winning note last Thursday.

She achieved high singles games of 235 and 202 and a high triple of 622 for the afternoon.

Other high singles went to Bernice Gillis with 226, Lil Gorgevatt, who had a 224, Eva Piper with 213, Joyce Penick, who had a 210, Audrey Fountain with 209 and Joan Hatkoski, who had a 203.

Motorcycle racing:

Challenge brings bike competitors to endurance race

What motivates an individual to mount a trail bike and spend a weekend motorcycling around the countryside?

"The challenge," admits motorcycle enthusiast Dan Wakeford of Peterborough, who competed in his very first competition over the weekend at the 1978 Corduroy Enduro held annually at Deer Lodge. Two hundred competitors participated in this year's version. Of the total, 129 finished Saturday but the number was narrowed to 51 Sunday.

"I usually ride with a bunch of guys just for the fun of it," said Wakeford, who became interested in the sport a couple of years ago after riding a friend's motorcycle for the first time. "Once you ride on one (a motorcycle)," he added, "you're hooked."

Participating in an organized competition requires plenty of advance preparation. It took him a week to prepare his motorcycle for the Enduro this weekend. He made sure the bike was properly tuned up and every part was in excellent operating condition.

Once the competition begins, the competitor has to be prepared for mishaps or breakdowns.

Wakeford carries all his spare parts with him. On the rear of his motorcycle, he has a tool kit strapped. In his jacket pockets, he carries numerous parts and taped to the frame of his bike is a control handle.

He wears protective clothing to prevent injury from a mishap. "I don't have every bit of clothing I require," he said, "but I plan to get more in the future."

The competition covered 175 miles each day with entrants leaving Deer Lodge between 8 and 9:40 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday. The motorcyclists covered a different route each day.

While awaiting arrival of their starting times, competitors completed last minute adjustments to their machines.

Age was not a noticeable factor as both young and old alike participated in the competition, organized by the British Empire Motor Club of Toronto, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

The competition is a test of man and machine, said organizer Kerr Chalmers of Toronto. The Corduroy Enduro is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year. It operated out of Coboconk for 20 years before traffic problems forced a move to Deer Lodge five years ago.

A husband and wife team captured top honours in the competition. John Cooper, 41 of Columbus, New Jersey, and his 40-year-old wife, Beth, were overall and ladies champion respectively. Three classes of Enduro are run; junior, senior and expert.

Haliburton's Dave Dodd Sr. captured the veteran's award, given to competitors in the 45 years of age and older group, while his son David, 16, won the senior medium weight class award.

Competitors left the starting line well prepared for the gruelling journey facing them. Participants and spectators watch as two entrants embark on the first leg of the 350-mile course. The event drew 200 motorcycle enthusiasts from Canada and the United States.

Chosen in August at convention

Kinsmen president elected

A grand Falls, Newfoundland resident, Leonard Simms, 34, was elected in August as national president of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs during its annual convention in Regina, Saskatchewan.

He is the first Newfoundland to hold the post and succeeds Don Masterson of Blackstock, Ontario, as head of the 18,000-member Canadian-wide organization.

The association provided more than $43-million through their 588 Kinsmen clubs from coast to coast.

Mr. Simms has been a member of Kinsmen for 13 years in Grand Falls, Nfld. He has served his local area as club president, Deputy Governor and Governor. He holds one of the Organization's highest honors, that of Master Kinsman.

He is employed by the Government of Newfoundland and Labrador as Assistant to the Premier, and is active in his community, having been a minor hockey coach, and executive member of the Grand Falls Men's Soft Ball Association and a member of the Masonic Order.

He and his wife, Sandra, a Kinsmen past president and former Kinette of the Year, have two children, Jacqueline, 12, and Douglas, 10.

Golf tourney held

PineStone Inn and Country Club was the scene last Wednesday of the annual Haliburton District Real Estate Board golf tournament organized by John O'Toole and Jack Jackson.

A crowd of ardent golfers turned out in spite of the inclement weather, and were able to complete their 18 holes of golf between showers.

Special prizes were presented by Jack Jackson for the lowest score and to Bill Roodenburg for being the most honest golfer. Dale Austin and Jean Jackson were tied for the ladies top honours. It was a happy occasion as realtors from all over the county gathered for a fine day of golf and a buffet dinner in the evening.

The following is a letter from Helen Jones, president of the program.

Coboconk Water Safety Finale

I am sure the committee and all of the children who took part in the New Kawartha Water Safety Programme this past July, would agree with me that it was a most successful and rewarding year.

Head instructor, Pat Griffin, and leader Kathie Munto, excelled themselves in all forms of teaching methods for the 73 children who were enrolled.

To have a water front program ready for summer lessons takes a great deal of preparation and planning. It also takes a committee of interested and co-operative people such as the swimming program has, to make a successful year. When the temperature was below freezing, and the snow was still on the ground the committee was at the Lions Park in Coboconk spreading plastic, and beach sand on the ice to prepare for the spring thaw so that this would sink and give a good base for the summer.

Thanks to Jim Hopkins and George Shepherd who spread sand with their tractors. The dock got a fresh coat of stain, and was moved down to the waters edge. To raise money for some new equipment this year, the committee held a bake sale. Thanks to the parents of the school children and legion and church.

ches in the area, $125.00 was raised. Also received was $186.00 from local businessmen. This year four new life jackets were added to the equipment. We wish to thank Mr. Mel Davies for his donation of two ring buoys.

The job of president is made a lot easier with the help of a good committee, and that is what I have: Charlene Cross - Secretary, Treasurer; Executive: Ruby Powell, Ellie Hannivan, Valerie Shepherd, Mary Wootton, Jack Lewis, Everett Cameron.

We always welcome newcomers to our committee. If interested, please get in touch with any of the above.

Wildlife management officer Eric Mitchell stationed at Minden, said the ministry has been able to determine that deer are beginning to multiply in the region bordered by the French and Mattawa Rivers to the north and Highways 36 and 503 to the south, excluding Algonquin Park.

Ministry figures show 895 deer were shot by hunters in 1976. The latest ministry figures, which date back four years, show the population of deer was 2,800.

In 1976, 32 moose were shot in the region, according to ministry figures.

spot a fire! And I was the pilot! I felt like a boy of ten. As we drew closer to the smoke, I turned the plane to the left so Bellinger could see out of the window on my side where the fire was. Smoke was billowing out of some trees by some hydro lines, and it indeed, looked like a fire. Bellinger sensed the seriousness of the situation and took the controls over.

"Let's go down for a closer look."

The plane spiralled down around the smoke and as we drew closer, we could see some helmeted men throwing bush onto the fire. It had been a controlled fire, and nothing else.

But there was something else. During our descent, my stomach decided to stay in the air. It felt queasy, and I started telling myself that I was not going to be sick. It was embarrassing, and I didn't want to spoil my lesson. Air sickness was something that I had thought only people with weak stomachs got.

Bellinger took the controls from there, and after a few passes over the town of Haliburton, we headed back to the field. I remembered the sick bag in the glove compartment, and then threw the idea out of my mind. I was not going to be sick.

And I wasn't. The flight back was enjoyable, and Bellinger explained all stages of the flight very interestingly. My stomach was back inside by the time we had landed, and as I climbed out of the plane, I was convinced that I wanted to go up again. But I would have to take further lessons.

We chatted afterward about people's feelings toward the safety involved in flying, and McLean pointed out something that almost shocked me into reality.

He suggested I consider the chances of driving against flying.

"You're driving on a highway which is maybe, eighteen feet across. You have two cars passing each other in opposite directions, and each car is about six feet wide. So at the most, that leaves you with six feet between the two cars which are heading toward each other at speeds of up to 100 m.p.h. Think about that."

I think I'll take my chances in the air. Besides it's a lot more scenic.

News from Extendicare

by Dr. O.W. Anderson

This is day one without an activity director. In the "Happy Gang" kitchen there are labels about the tell us where to find or put things left for that purpose by Mrs. Lewis. It will be a great help to the gang to always use them that way.

We had a quite long movie in two parts this Monday p.m. by the National Geographic Society on wild animals and the zoo. Until recently zoo keepers were content to keep their captive animals in cages, where, it became apparent that they died prematurely from one overwhelming factor - simple boredom. Since then it has become popular to keep the animals in a "normal" range as is found in the popular safaris. Another factor is being closely followed up by the veterinary staff, the overall result being that most of the zoo animals are living longer than they would if left in the wild.

Tuesday there was much activity getting our plants and flowers out of the way of frost, potting some geraniums and planting the rest in the lounge planter. Some Dahlias are potted, others, the bulbous roots are saved. All of our perishable house plants, if not hanging inside are on the mobile planter to be moved indoors or outdoors at will. It is regrettable that we leave almost all the beautiful summer bloom to parish. We will try out some of the seed to find out if they will germinate true. It seems that we are continually learning. On the other hand, our flowers, all of them, sure did us proud all this summer, and we will try to get as much bloom as we can get this coming winter.

It does seem to be very easy to slip up on the staff changes here. We encounter a new nurse and it just seems commonplace and it isn't. Thursday, Sept. 7, a new night nurse, Mrs. Margaret Angrove, R.N., joined the nursing staff and from repute so far everyone likes her. Just the same, behave yourselves, Mrs. Barbara Fryer, R.N.A., who has currently been our night nurse has left us to live in Hamilton. We all wish her the best.

Thursday morning we began the combined pot luck dinner get together with the Haliburton Senior Citizens Club for the 1978-79 session. We of Extendicare were gratified that we were invited though unfortunately, not too many of us chose to partake of such a marvelous chance. One hundred eighty of us sat down to the repast. By the request of Mr. Emil Neiman, president, grace was said by Mr. Kenneth Stewart. It was amazing to see so many Haliburton Senior Citizens there. The biggest turn-out yet. Since everyone brought her or his offering of food, it was in abundance and delicious. Mr. Neiman, in addressing us, pointed out the possibility of the club wishing a change of president but by a show of hands that looked unanimous, the members present voted that he continue. It is a remarkable and cohesive club and Emil gives all he has for it, and it appears that the Dysart Community Auditorium has been given to the use of this club for as long as they want it. Cheers for the elderly.

It was unique that the Happy Gang was represented at a party given in the same auditorium by Ms. Sheila Elson in the evening for all the volunteer helpers who have given their time and skills to the residents to help us have a nicer party or a more enjoyable outing. A chafest and light refreshments accompanied by Mrs. Nancy Picard's accordion.

having established what the problem was, both he and Susan headed back to the Echo office to see what could be done. Together they found the photographs for the advertisements, but the one for the news page just couldn't be found. There was nothing to do but to print another one. Bleary eyed and half asleep, Joe Banks printed the picture, guessing at the size it had to be to fill the space that was allotted for it. And off the pictures went to Bracebridge to meet up with the rest of the paper. And Joe and Susan headed back to their beds, not long before the sun began to rise.

Those kind of minor disasters are fortunately rare, but it sometimes amazes us here that they happen so seldom. There are literally hundreds of steps that go into making the paper if you broke everyone's job down in detail, and they all have to be done right if the finished product is to be as good as we all want it to be.

Try as we might, though, we're never quite perfect. Few humans are, and the newspaper is very much a human enterprise. It reflects personalities, beliefs, and the people who make up the communities it serves.

Guild of Fine Arts News

By Carole McLean

The phrase, "grandma made it" - whether it be quilts, afgans, handwoven articles or stoneware pottery, the love and pride expressed in that one statement says it all. And yet, we continue to associate all hand crafted items with people belonging to the previous generation. In today's culture, as never before, we are conscious of keeping these crafts alive. The label, "Hand Crafted" has come to represent the truest form of art, be it displayed or sold. "Hand Crafted" has been termed, "A work of art - an act of love."

The Guild 'Birth of a Dream'
In 1962, a loosely associated group of artists, crafts people and interested persons, formed the "Highlands of Haliburton Art Group", as a non-dues paying organization dedicated to encouraging art forms in Haliburton County. They shared one main conviction - that the region's potential for the development of artistic talent was a natural resource, waiting to be tapped. The prime movers of this cause were Toronto painter and engraver, William Watson, who summered near Halls Lake, and C.D.(Fergie) Ferguson, who's business experience and administrative gifts brought the first Summer Exhibition. Held in August 1963, at the Christian Education Building of Carnarvon United Church, the show attracted a total of 504 visitors - no small feat in those early days. As the organization grew, others became involved and from 1964-1966, the Summer Exhibition improved. In 1966, with the cooperation of the Haliburton County School authorities, a children's art contest and show of original work was planned. The response was inspiring. The spring of 1967 saw another group emerging under the leadership of Rev. Ron McCaw, a recently transferred United Church minister, and the forming of the Haliburton School of Fine Arts.

(Next week - The School, a plan for the future, a labour of love.)

Pottery Group

As of this week the pottery group's fall courses have officially started. The workshop is once again in order after a busy summer, awaiting the eager hands of its winter students. Soon all seven wheels will be humming with activity and the warm pungent smell of both kilns will fill the air. It's become a common sight of see, any day of the week, one or more of our women members, dashing through town in clay spattered clothes, looking for all the world as if they've just spent the day playing in the mud with pre-schoolers.

It's a far cry from the winter of 1970 when a group of nine, ambitious women met in Minden at Highland Crest Home, to enjoy a productive social evening, under the instruction of Vi Hudson. Later that same winter Vie moved the group into her home and they remained there two years. Again in 1973 the group moved to the Custodian building at the then new high school, but found this highly insufficient as it was small and cramped. As the group was increasing, they thought it was wise to inquire about larger accommodations. They approached Doug Hodgson of the Haliburton County School Board, about utilizing Lake

Minden area couple mark 50th wedding anniversary

A surprise celebration was held recently to honour Mr. and Mrs. Orville C. Eagle, Oshawa, Ontario, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Eagle is the former Florence Smith. The couple were married August 31, 1928 at the bride's home in Oshawa. Both have taken an active part in the church life of Simcoe St. United Church, in the Official Board, and the United Church Women. Mr. Eagle retired from General Motors in 1968 after 40 years service, and is a former alderman of the city of Oshawa.

The Eagles have been summer residents since 1943 when they purchased property and built their cottage on Horseshoe Lake, Blairhampton, near Minden. They regularly attend Carnarvon United Church.

Friends gathered at the cottage recently, where the couple was toasted and presented with a 50th anniversary tray. That same evening, a dinner party was held at PineStone Inn, Haliburton. Friends attended from Toronto, Mississauga, Oshawa, and Lorain, Ohio. Congratulations were received from the Prime Minister, the Governor-General, and Oshawa M.P. Edward Broadbent.

Quebec Bible Fund Still Open

The fund raising dinner that the local Gideons held at the Stanhope Fireman's Hall, September 9 was highly successful and enjoyed by all present.

However, the goal of 1000 Bibles for Montreal hotel placement was not quite reached and the fund remains some $300 short of the $2,500.00 needed to fill that goal. Donations for this cause will be graciously received and the fund remains open so the objective can be reached.

Should you desire to help meet the objective, send your donation to the treasurer, Mr. E. Pitts, R.R. #2, Minden, Ontario.

Jesus Stilling the Storm

The servant-son as Mark presents the Lord Jesus is pictured as the Mighty Worker, constantly active and energetic in the performance of the Father's will and service. In Chapters 4 and 5 Mark reveals how the servant-son manifested His power over the raging elements, over the work of the devil and demons, and also over disease and death. The elements, demons, sickness and death obeyed His Word and yielded to His will. He spoke unto them as though they were His servants and they obeyed Him in like manner. His Word was the Word of Omnipotent power and by His Power He conquered and subdued the enemy. The Lord Jesus was the absolute master over all the evil in the world, because He was the Lord Jehovah come down to earth on behalf of a ruined and sinful race. The acts and deeds that He did were His credentials, and are recorded for us that we might trust this One as our very own Saviour and Lord.

The stilling of the storm in Mark 4:35-41 is a thrilling incident, not only because of what the Lord Jesus did, but also because of the experience it brought to the disciples. They had been with Jesus for quite some time by now and followed Him from place to place, and were continually instructed by their Teacher as they were led in paths of His own choosing.

The majority of potters work for their own satisfaction, making stoneware for themselves or Christmas gifts for family and friends. and the pianissimo of Ray Jenkins turning out an enhancing melody of popular music and the singing of Peggy Neville was nicely complementary. In due time came a delightful buffet dinner of prime ribs or chicken breasts, with roast potatoes and cole slaw. Ms. Elson welcomed the guests and thanked the volunteer helpers for their time and skills since extencicare opened. Reeve Fearrey, in a short address, pointed out that the repete of extencicare in this area is exceptionally high, and that it filled a need for the Haliburton area that they would not now want to be without. The role of say, a volunteer driver helper, was exemplified by another guest speaker. Referring to our tent problems of the trip to Upper Canada Village, the speaker noted that, were it not for Jim Cooper, the successful erection of the tent may have been dubious.

Gems of Truth

It was thus that the disciples found themselves in a boat with Him upon a wild and raging sea. The little boat was tossed up and down by the enormous waves and was filling with water, so that they found themselves in very apparent danger of being drowned. Their trying experience drove them to fear, and unbelief was taking their eyes off the One who was sleeping in the hinder part of the boat. They were perfectly safe even though they were in great danger, the Lord of the universe was with them in their trial and they had safety in Him.

The terrific storm was no doubt caused by Satan. He hated Christ with a bitter and relentless hatred and continually sought to destroy Him so that He would not finally reach the Cross, and by His voluntary death there accomplish human redemption. Early in the childhood days of the Saviour, satanic impulses stirred King Herod to have all male children destroyed, and now the storm was Satan's strategic effort to destroy the Lord Jesus Christ. But of course, He was unable to do so. The Saviour must live until He had finished the work He came to do. Yes, He was to die, but not now, He was to be killed, but not by a storm. He was to go to the grave, but could not be buried in the depth of the sea. In the fullness of time He would die, but in the manner fixed in the foreknowledge and predetermined counsel of God. Satan attempted to kill Him before He had reached the Cross.

That same hatred of Satan for Christ is also the lot of every born-again Christian. The disciples were in the boat with Jesus and shared the onslaught with Him. All Christ's own are vitally linked with Him and share the same interests with Him, and they may also expect to share Satan's hatred against Him.

True discipleship involves bearing the cross. It means to suffer reproach and shame, it means to inter into the reality of what it means to be crucified and dead with Christ. Luke 14:26-27, Gal.

2:20. 6:14. Every believer in Christ is drawn out of the world and is no longer of it. John 17:14,16. His citizenship, or more literally, enrollment, is in Heaven. Phil 3:20-21.

POP BOTTLE CARE

Returnable bottles benefit both the consumer and the manufacturer. The consumer does not have to pay for bottles that are discarded and accumulated as waste, and the pop people don't have to produce new costly bottles.

Since any damage, however slight, causes a bottle to be withdrawn and destroyed at the bottling plant, here is a suggestion for the socially-conscious consumer who wants to minimize waste and cost.

Get into the habit of returning empties with the SCREW-CAP on. This protects the delicate thread at the mouth of the bottle, and reduces the possibilities of damage. It is also more hygienic, as it prevents trash and insects from getting in, which may escape the cleansing processes at the plant. It will also avoid annoying spilling of dregs at home, in the store, and at the plant.

Mrs. Green is available to talk to groups about shopping and other subjects of consumer interest.

Extendicare resident enjoys writing weekly column for paper

'When I hear something, if it strikes me as newsworthy, I write it down.'

by Gord Lavoie

Writing keeps an individual's curiosity alive, advocates Dr. O. W. Anderson, who is the author of a weekly column which appears in The Haliburton County Echo.

A resident of Extendicare Limited, he enjoys the personal satisfaction of writing the column.

"I like to write a little everyday if I can," he says.

A retired general physician, who practiced in Bancroft, Dr. Anderson began writing his column 18 months ago, shortly after arriving at the facility. "I just fell into it," he quipped.

Another resident, Charlie Plewman, had written the column since the Extendicare facility opened more than two years ago. Plewman was unable to continue writing the column because his eyesight began to deteriorate.

Dr. Anderson is interested in language and enjoys the challenge of constantly improving his writing ability by assessing his work each week. He approaches his writing much like an architect begins plans for a house, he revealed.

A native of Sundridge, Ontario, he taught school for two years after graduation from high school then joined the army. During his two years of military service, he was wounded in the shoulder while making an assault on a canal in France.

He was shot while charging a knoll with his comrades. He walked two miles to a first-aid station for treatment.

While recovering in England from his wound, he decided to upgrade his education. A group of professors had established a university at Ripon in Yorkshire for war veterans awaiting to return to Canada. He enrolled in the university, known as Khaki University, in October, 1918. He graduated in June, 1919, with his senior matriculation.

Upon returning to Canada, after his discharge in 1919, he enrolled in the school of medicine at the University of Toronto. "My mother always wanted me to go into medicine," he said. His two years of military service provided sufficient capital for his university expenses.

He lived on Cumberland street in Toronto while attending university and paid $20 a week room and board. The average weekly wage at the time was $30 a week, he revealed.

For entertainment, he attended movies, which cost 35 cents.

'I like to keep improving my writing style'

He did not participate in sports while at university because he did not want to risk serious injury, he explained.

While attending McMaster University, an older brother had broken his ankle playing rugby.

He graduated in 1924 from the university's five-year course in medicine. "Practically the whole class was war veterans," he said. "There were more than 200 of us."

His class was the last group to graduate from the five-year program. The program was changed to a six-year duration the next year.

Following his graduation, he spent a year internship in a hospital at Toledo, Ohio. He established his practice in Maynooth, Ontario, in 1925 and spent 10 years as a general physician in the community before moving his practice to Bancroft.

While practicing in Bancroft, he served as coroner for a Hastings, Victoria and Haliburton counties. He served from 1940 to 1966 as coroner for Hastings and 10 years later assumed those duties for Victoria and Haliburton.

He married a nurse in 1927 and raised a family of three boys and a girl. None of his children followed in their father's footsteps, but one son is a lawyer in Bancroft.

"The practice of medicine is becoming delegated to the nursing profession," he says of present conditions in the field. "Tedious tasks are now accomplished by nurses."

In his time, he said, the doctors did everything and were required to know as much as possible about many areas of medicine. With the advent of specialization, he explained, the practice of medicine has changed significantly.

He said his career as a doctor was fairly routine, but he does recall an important highlight from his several decades in medicine.

In 1946, he attended the delivery of triplets at the hospital in Bancroft. The most significant thing about the birth, he explained, was the fact that a boy was born before midnight on New Year's Eve and a girl and boy were born after midnight.

All three, he said, lived to enjoy a healthy normal life.

Dr. Anderson never took a holiday from his practice until

Hot steel and a bit of steam

by Joe Banks

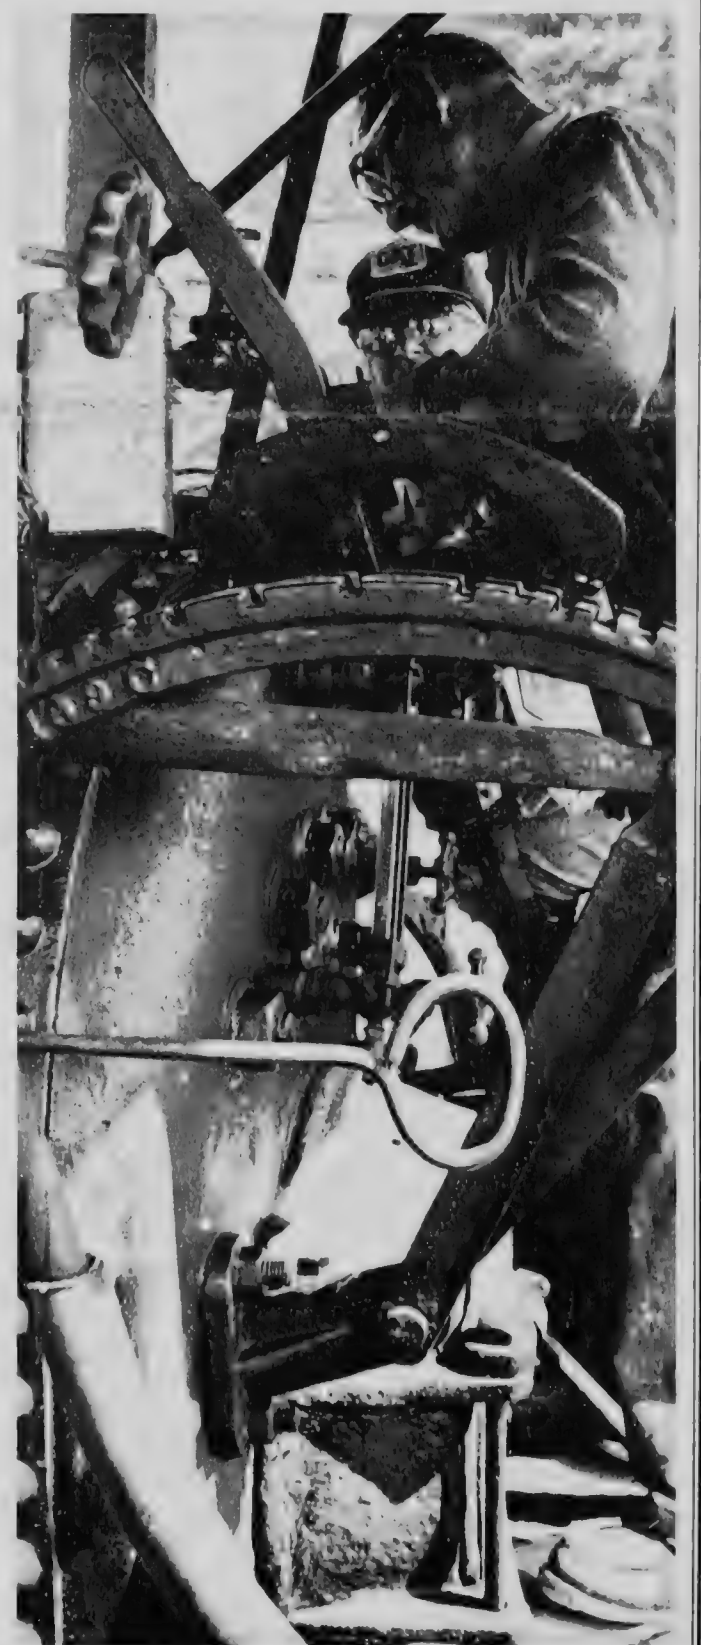

If getting around with hot grease and black soot, and being soaked with steam doesn't appeal to you, then old-time engineer Bert McArthur probably wouldn't give you the time of day.

He's a steam-engine operator who has been "firing the boilers and chuck in the wood" for close to 60 years. He has never once considered going into another trade or job; his life-long ambition and occupation was and still is to operate steam engines.

McArthur, 72, was at the Kinmount Fair two weeks ago to show folks what steam engines could be used for, and to tell any curious inquirers what they did and how they operated.

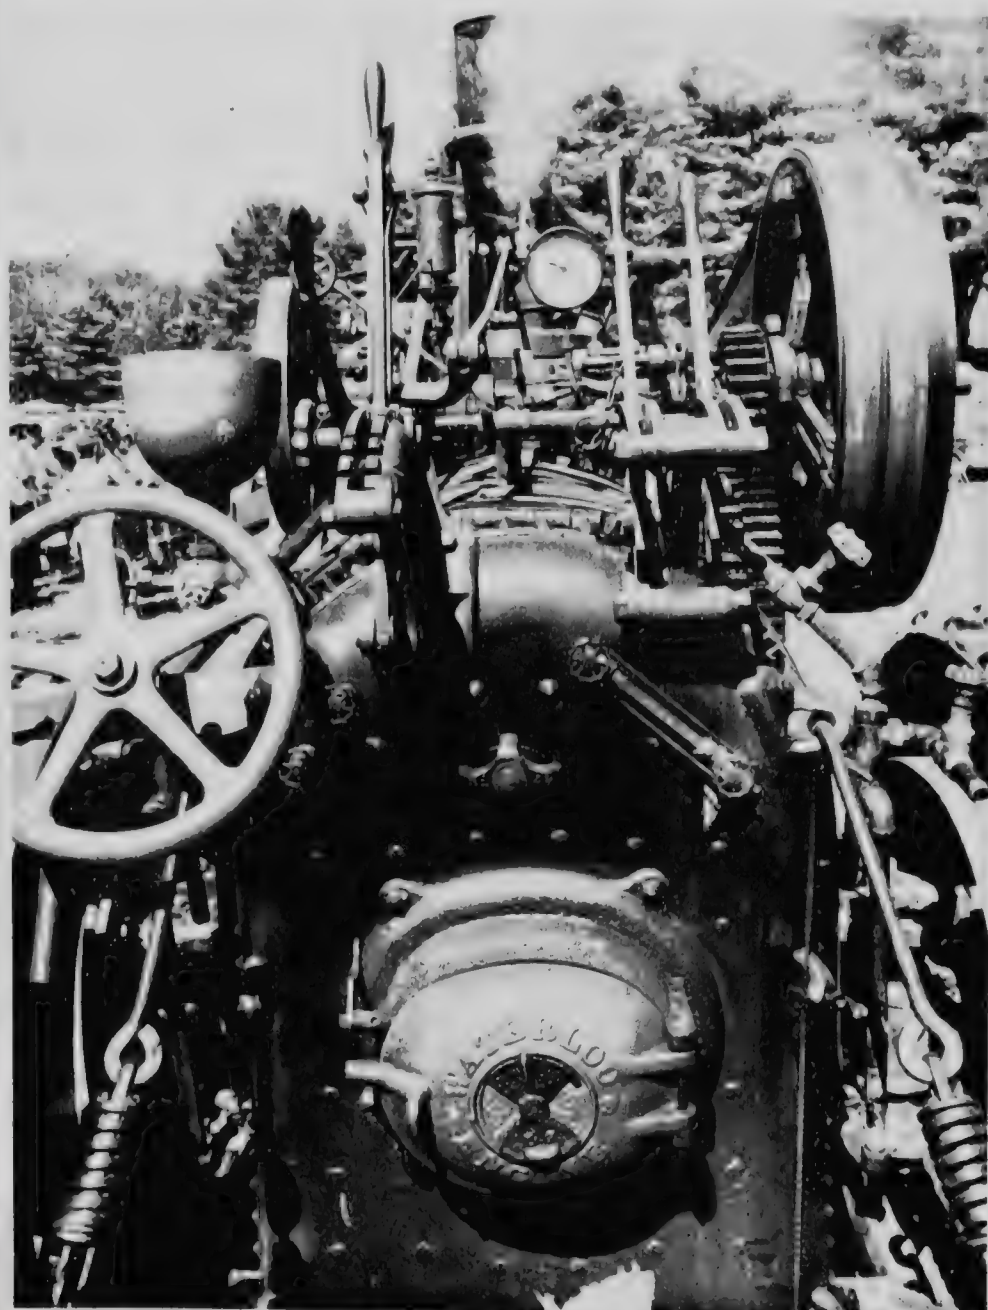

He has lived near the town of Argyle, Ontario all his life. The deep wrinkles and shrunken skin on his face are living evidence of his long association with steam, but his blue eyes will sparkle and dance when he talks about steam engines - especially the engine he ran to power a portable sawmill at the fair.

"I bought her in 1940. She must have cut thousands of feet of lumber, that old thing. Yes sir, I cut me a few sticks of lumber with that one"

Bert McArthur on his engine

The love of steam is still in his blood

An old steam engine blows off some steam

"I bought her in 1940. She must have cut thousands of feet of lumber, that old thing. Yes sir, I cut me a few sticks with that one," he said.

McArthur has owned four engines in the past, and sold all but one - the one he has now - to collectors, scrap metal dealers and anyone else who might have been interested in buying the obsolete machines.

The engine McArthur still owns was used to power portable sawmills. It also supplied the energy to stone-crushers and thrashers, the jobs McArthur vividly remembers doing. He was contracted during the 1920's up until the forties by various companies or individuals to carry out these tasks with his fleet of engines.

"We used to crush stone for the township, when we were making a good 80 cents an hour. I thrashed straight with her for 49 years, and never missed a spell. There ain't too many who can say that, I'll tell you," boasts McArthur.

His fascination with steam engines began when he was a boy of 12 in 1918. His father operated very early engines around 1907, and McArthur wanted to follow in his father's footsteps, so he started working with the engines, helping his dad.

Gradually, McArthur started a business of his own, and took over where his father had left off. His engine had the capability to produce 150 pounds of pressure per square inch, and generated about 70 horsepower.

Because of its great power, the machine could be hooked up to a belt to run devices which required outside power, such as the mills. It had wheels, and could still can move along on its own steam, though the pressure rating has been lowered to 110 p.s.i.

McArthur says that the work was hard, but he loved every minute of it. Today, he only uses the engine to display and demonstrate at fairs around the province. But he says that he still gets great pleasure out of running the engine.

"I don't really know what it is I like so much about it...I guess I like the smell of old grease burning and the smell of steam. It's in your blood - that must be what it is," he said.

McArthur says he is somewhat frustrated at today's "younger people 'cause they have no idea about a steam engine." He feels it is important for the younger generation to realize what steam did for industry, and what it can still do.

The whole concept of pollution also is something McArthur says he is confused about.

"A lot of people talk about pollution, but old McArthur ate more dirt than anyone, and I'm still here," he admitted with a laugh.

The engineer is not married and has no children. He says he has remained a bachelor all of his life, and is "just gonna keep on working." McArthur is retired after snowplowing for his township for 23 years but says he keeps busy doing demonstrations with the engine and portable mill with his brother.

Several people have approached McArthur and asked him what he is going to do with the antique.

"Well," I tell them, "instead of spending the money to buy a tombstone, I think that when I go, I'll have the engine over my grave - then we'll both be gone at the same time."

McArthur admits that he had "quite a go with the government for a while," with respect to his steam engine operator's licence, which every steam engineer must have renewed annually.

"Old McArthur ate more dirt than anyone..."

Apparently, some red tape delayed the issuance of McArthur's licence but after some struggling, he managed to persuade a government representative that since he had been working on the engines for so many years, his qualifications spoke for themselves. The representative was satisfied, and wrote an impromptu licence on the back of his business card instead of going through regular channels.

"I didn't have any schoolin', but I'm a bugger to fight with," McArthur laughs.

His love for the 1920 - vintage steam traction engine has never diminished, as is evident when he climbs on top of its cast-iron platform. After the belt is hooked on to the sprocket of the portable mill, and the pressure in the cylinder has built up sufficiently to cause the gauge to register 110, McArthur will smile and ease his hand on the throttle lever.

Steam will fly from tiny outlets all over the engine, and atomized droplets of water will splash on to his face from the churning cylinder.

His face might be coated with oil, grease and flecks of black soot, but Bert McArthur, steam engine engineer, has never been happier.

Maple Lake News

by Ada Gibbs

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sisson of Schreiber, Ont., have been visiting relatives and friends in the Carnarvon and Boscung Lake area.

Rev. and Mrs. W. I. D. Smith of Sutton cottage area, renewed friendships with a number of residents in the Haliburton, West Guilford, and Maple Lake area recently. At one time Rev. Ivan Smith was the rector in this parish.

Mrs. Vernon Boles and Mrs. Lou Taylor have been at the Boles cottage on the north shore of Maple Lake this past week.

The A.C.W. meeting held at Vi Smith's last week brought out 13 members and two visitors. What a pleasant afternoon the ladies had chatting together after not having had a meeting since June. Of course business was also attended to, a decision, made regarding the turkey supper Saturday Oct. 7, and a committee formed to make plans and arrangements. The meeting ended in the form of a birthday celebration for two of the members with a cake and candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Roberts spent an anxious hour or two one day last week, when they found their pipes and chimney ablaze. The firemen were alerted and were there in no time flat to get this fire under control. Mrs. Roberts, who had food cooking in the oven wondered how the food would stand such a test - I didn't hear the outcome of the test.

The Maple Lake United Church ladies are putting on a miscellaneous shower Wednesday September 20 in the basement of their church, in honour of Miss Marlene Cook, whose wedding will soon be announced.

More belated birthday greetings for September, especially to Annie Jones, and Mary Dyer.

The St. Peter's special vestry meeting was well attended. It was good to have Rev. David Barker back, with use after his vacation. The two items on the agenda were well threshed out, being plans for the installation of indoor washroom facilities, and the decision made for a memorial stained glass window in memory of B. Napier Simpson, Jr., whose untimely passing occurred in mid-June.

As St. Peter's has had a legacy left to it from the will of the late Holly Dawson, this is likely to be used in the installation of a pulpit, something which the church has never had. These will add to the beauty of our church, as well as being a lasting memorial.

Mrs. Louise Clark left Friday on a bus trip to the west coast. She expects to be gone three weeks.

1950 when he travelled across Canada by car. "I enjoyed it very much."

He has always been interested in horticulture, but never received an opportunity to pursue it while practicing medicine. An avid reader of novels (he enjoys westerns and detective stories) and documentaries, he enjoys his life at Extensicare.

"Take each day as it comes," he said.

His column writing keeps him busy at the nursing home. "When I hear something," he explained, "if it strikes me as newsworthy, I write it down."

He says he gets a real "kick" out of writing his weekly column and feels it is important to him to please his readers.

"I like to keep improving my writing style," explained Dr. Anderson.

He approaches the task in a routine fashion. He keeps little notes of the happenings he has recorded at Extensicare and types his column from the information in his notes.

Dr. Anderson creates his column over a seven-day period. He begins a new column every Monday and records the events over the next seven days.

Chatting with Irene

Here we are nearly at the end of September. Have you noticed how the trees are starting to turn? There is also a type of virus that is around. I sure hope most of you miss it. I had it over this past week, and had bones aching that I didn't know I even had.

It seems like yesterday that we were planting our gardens, now we have most of them dug up.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Snell have left on a holiday to the east coast.

Don't forget the Women's Institute bus trip on Wednesday, September 27. If tickets are still available and you wish to go, contact Mrs. Annie Kernahan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Duman attended their daughter Linda's wedding in Vancouver the end of August, then spent some time in that area before returning home.

The Plans and Finance Committees of the Library - Museum are meeting with officials from Toronto this Wednesday afternoon, to discuss the architectural plans. More about this next week.

Mrs. Norman Lee has her mother, Mrs. Peggy Davis of Peterborough visiting with her at present.

Mrs. Gord Macminn is leaving this weekend for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ruxton in New Brighton, England.

The post office says they will strike if necessary this Friday; the government says not. I wonder who will win? I see by the paper that Canadian Westinghouse have ended their four month strike. They sure lost a lot. It seems that strikes cost more than they help. Once the government stepped in, the T.T.C. strike didn't last long.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brandon and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pergolas are on a motor trip through the northern U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Bunker had Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Goudie of Whitby as guests on the weekend. The Goudies are Mrs. Bunker's parents.

T.V. was very interesting on the weekend, especially for the sport minded folk. Friday the fights; two ball-games Saturday as well as the horse races. Those I enjoyed watching Sunday was football which I never watch anyway. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt spent the weekend in Toronto, where they attended a wedding.

Richard Kirkwood of Minden told us the other day that he has a 14 ft. - 5 in. holly hock and a 6 ft. potato top growing at his residence.

Well folks, it seems that as of October 2, we will have another bank in town. The Toronto Dominion are opening a branch. This at present will be a mobile bank beside the theatre, and as soon as the house is moved and the new building erected, they will move into it. One of our ladies, Mrs. Mary Coney-beare is at present in Orillia taking a course as she will be one of the tellers.

Mr. Francis Smith of Detroit, Mich. is visiting with his sister, Mrs. Anne Dawson at present.

Had my nephew Doug Chamberlain of Scarborough drop in to see me Sunday, and he brought me a conch shell he had gotten me while in the Bahamas. He and his friend dove for them and it is lovely.

What will they think of next? Here is a recipe for pickled Zucchini: - 2 pound of small Zucchini unpeeled; 2 medium onions; 1/4 cup coarse pickling salt; 2 cups white vinegar; 1 cup white sugar; 2 tsp. mustard seed; 1 tsp. celery seed; 1 tsp. turmeric.

Cut Zucchini and onions in very thin slices, add salt and cover with ice water. Let stand 2 hours then drain. Combine remaining ingredients in large saucepan and bring to boil. Add Zucchini and onions, return to boil and boil gently for 2 minutes. Pack into hot sterile jars and seal. Makes about 3 pints.

Hope to have more for you next week; Adios and take care now.

Historic MacKenzie House at Kirkfield notched up another first on Saturday Sept. 2: the Golden wedding anniversary celebrations of Arthur and Evelyn Michel, R.R. #1, Kirkfield, and Toronto.

Despite it being a surprise party (the best kept secret in years) tributes came pouring in. The Governor-General sent a letter, the Prime Minister sent another. Ontario sent a plaque, and other messages were received from both the federal and provincial parliamentary representatives of Victoria-Haliburton. Joe Clark sent best wishes from Ottawa and ex-Mayor Crombie in possibly his last official act, penned congratulations from the people of Toronto.

Laurie Barkwell, Reeve of Bexley Township was another who didn't let the occasion pass by unnoticed, and Dave Murray, Warden of Victoria County made a special trip to present a history of the county to the Golden couple.

Relatives and friends were all assembled on MacKenzie House verandah when Mr. and Mrs. Michel were piped in past the carriage drive. Mrs. Michel, still believing she was attending a reception for another couple, couldn't believe her eyes!

"I thought the girl piper was just practising in the grounds," she said later. "And I thought the car would run her down. It wasn't until I saw all those people gathered that I knew the party was for us."

Guests had flown in from as far away as England and Alberta to wish the couple well and drink to their health at the anniversary banquet and to pin money on a live money tree.

The tree came from the property of Laura Michel, third grandchild and her fiancé, Darrell Janke who are building in the area. It was planted next morning on the shores of Balsam Lake. One of the highlights of the evening was Mr. Michel's announcement of the engagement.

The previous evening a private family dinner was held. Mr. and Mrs. Michel's only great grandchild, Andrew Smith, was, alas in

Haliburton Highlights by Creighton Feir

The Haliburton Senior Citizens Club held their first dinner and get together at the Dysart Community Centre Auditorium last Thursday and well over 100 people were on hand to enjoy a delicious meal, meet their old friends and have an afternoon of games and fun. This is a wonderful organization that just seems to keep on growing and growing and we are told that they now have nearly 200 members. They didn't hold any meetings during the two summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boutillier from Toronto and Ms. Marika Balazs visited with Bob's grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Botting of Haliburton recently.

John Eakins, M.P.P. for Victoria-Haliburton was in the area last Thursday visiting with his constituents and talking over some of the problems some people had.

The local plumbers are busy these days connecting householders onto the second phase of the sewers. From what we can understand a great number of people are hooking on.

The real truth about acidic precipitation came out at a recent meeting of the Rotary Club of Haliburton when Bob MacNaull introduced Dr. Tom Brydges and Dennis Nagata from the Ontario Ministry of the Environment. Dr. Brydges filled the members in on the work of his department "Limnology and Toxicity" which is the study of physical phenomena of lakes and poisons. Mr. Nagata, who is an information officer for the ministry, finished the program with an explanation concerning press coverage of this very real problem. Everyone present found the discussion very interesting and educational.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Scheffee and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson are at present vacationing at Myrtle Beach.

We understand that work will begin soon on the new proposed park on Head Lake at Haliburton.

Bill Emmerson who was in the local hospital with a back ailment is now resting at his home here in Haliburton.

The following article was handed to us the other day taken from the Eganville Leader. The following item took place 50 years ago. We quote. "A remarkable achievement on the part of a 16 year-old girl living in Haliburton County has come to light with the publishing of the results of the matriculation examinations in the locality. The girl, Clara Watt (Mrs. Frank Anderson) of R.R. #1, Guilford Township, has passed her junior matriculation examination in twelve papers, in eight of which she took first class honours. This title which entitles Miss Watt to the Haliburton Scholarship of $150, is remarkable enough in itself, but becomes even more so through the fact that this clever young student has never attended high school for one day in her life. She completed her matriculation course in the little county public school in which she secured record entrance standings at age 12 years. Miss Watt who is situated on the edge of the trackless forest, north of Algonquin Park, by this almost prodigious accomplishment, obtains the highest honours which have ever been won by any student in Haliburton County, according to the Warden, B.J. Sawyer. Just a final note here to say that Mrs. Clara Anderson was taught by Mrs. Morgan Prentice.

It just turns you off to think that some people haven't any more brains than to go over to the tennis courts and sit on the nets and go back and forth. If they want a swing why not get into a hammock and swing back and forth. They always seem to do it when no one is looking and it is a crime to go over and see one of the nets all sagged in the middle. These nets cost a great deal of money and they have been put there for your use. It's just another case that some people aren't content unless they are destroying public property.

Bill Tait, a former resident of Haliburton, who now resides in Parry Sound, was a recent visitor to Haliburton.

It's good to see our good friend Jack Roberts who now lives in California back to Haliburton for a visit. He was telling me that it was a really hot summer down there with temperatures hovering well over the 100 degree mark most of the time. Boy, that's really hot.

'The Happy Gang' - a group that gets things done at Haliburton's Extendicare

Senior citizens organizations have cropped up virtually everywhere across Canada in the past decade.

Elderly residents of Haliburton's Extendicare Limited nursing home are no exception as they enjoy membership in their own organization.

Known as 'The Happy Gang', the 60-member group has used $9,000 Horizons grant, obtained from the federal government, to brighten the lives of its members.

The Happy Gang meets every first Wednesday in each month. They usually conduct a discussion among the membership. Every resident of Extendicare automatically becomes a member of the organization when they are admitted to the nursing home.

Patio planters, lawn furniture, a shuffleboard court and a gas-fired brick outdoor barbecue were purchased by the organization with the funds.

Formed in March, 1976, when the Extendicare facility opened, the Happy Gang has created its own kitchen for the women in the group to upgrade their cooking ability, explained the organization's secretary Dr. O.W. Anderson. He has been a member of the executive for 18 months. Other members are president, Berkeley Feir, who has held the office for a year, and treasurer Mary Currah. She has held the post for 18 months.

Now that the busy season is gearing down at the Peterborough Lift Lock, work will resume on grouting and re-surfacing the tunnel.

Work had earlier been suspended when it proved too difficult to block through traffic under the lift lock at the height of tourist visitation.

Work has been scheduled next year for grouting and rebuilding parts of the architectural details of the structure, and for sealing the tops of the towers against water penetration.

Farm News & Views

The report from the Warton Feeder Sale last week that steer calves sold for prices up to $90.00 per hundred weight was welcome news to cow-calf producers. However, careful planning and preparation is required by any producer who hopes to obtain these kind of top prices for his calves this fall. And now is the time to start preparing.

The goal is to allow the calf to be separated from his mother, and prepared for the next stage of growth, with as little stress as possible.

The first step is to start to creep feed the calves about a month before weaning. Allow the calves access to a separate area, and feed them good hay and some grain.

If possible, have the same kind of watering system in the creep that the calves will use after they are weaned.

In a couple of weeks, the calves will be well started on feed. Now is the time to vaccinate them, and to apply a systemic insecticide for warbles and lice. Consult your veterinarian regarding the vaccination program to use. Be sure to follow the directions carefully in applying the systemic.

This is also an ideal time to dehorn any horned calves, and to castrate the males. Remember, this is still two weeks before weaning.

On weaning day, calves can be weighed, wormed if necessary, and Vitamins A, D, & E can be injected. Also check any wounds from castrating or dehorning which need treatment.

After weaning, keep the calves on the same feeds they received in the creep, and check them daily to be sure they are eating properly.

Finally, give the calves a couple of weeks to get adjusted after weaning before selling them.

By following this kind of "preconditioning" program a beef calf producer will be helping ensure that his calves are as desirable as possible to the prospective buyers.

Finally, where should you sell your calves to be sure of getting the best possible price? Certainly do not sell them to the first buyer who drives into your yard and offers you so many dollars per head.

Sell them by the pound, getting them weighed somewhere so you know their weights.

Seriously consider taking them to one of the auction sales where people wanting to buy calves are present. There are feeder sales every Thursday at the Ontario Stockyards in Toronto; special feeder sales are being held at Woodville Sales Barn on October 19 & 26, and at Lindsay Sales Barn on October 18 & 25 and November 4. Also the regular weekly sales at Lindsay and Woodville attract a number of buyers.

There are large numbers of top quality beef calves being raised in Central Ontario. By properly preparing these calves for sale, and then presenting these calves as a quality package to buyers, cow-calf producers should receive a fair price for their animals this fall.

Obituary: Mervyn Victor Robertson

MERVYN ROBERTSON

by Creighton Feir

The village of Haliburton was shocked last week when it was learned that Mervyn Victor Robertson, one of the village's long time residents and former owner of Wig-A-Mog Inn passed away at the Red Cross Hospital in Haliburton on Thursday, September 14th, 1978 in his 74th year.

Mervyn, who had not been in the best of health for the past several months, kept his interest in local affairs right up until the end. After he retired from the business world in 1967 he still kept active in community affairs and was a good carpenter and built his own home on Head

Lake. He was a man of good character and integrity and a solic businessman who knew what business was all about and his carefully thought out decisions made him a success in this area.

He was a man who was given the talent of being a great organizer and one of his great strengths was his ability to show leadership in his work on the Easter Seal Campaign and with the Crippled Childrens committee of the Rotary Club. He not only played a big part in organizing and helping with the Easter Seal Campaign but also worked twelve months of the year in the administration end of the work with crippled children.

Mervyn was born at Allsaw on May 24th, 1905. He graduated from North Bay Normal School in 1925 and taught school for nine years.

In 1935-36 he worked for London Life Insurance Co. at Timmins, Ontario where he met Alice Mowat whom he married in 1940.

In 1937 he bought an interest in Wig-A-Mog Inn and ten years later secured sole ownership. It was here that he along with his wife Alice operated one of the most successful tourist resorts in the area. During this time he met and got acquainted with a great many people who year after year would come back to Wig-A-Mog for their summer vacation.

As we sit here looking over the list of organizations and community projects Mervyn was involved in, it's hard to know just where to begin. He was chairman of the Dysart School Area Board at the time Lakeview School was enlarged and re-modelled, a charter member of the Haliburton Rotary Club and it's fifth president. Just recently he was given an honorary membership in the Rotary Club of Haliburton, the highest award that can be bestowed on a Rotarian. He received the award following many years of diligent and faithful service in the cause of Rotary.

He was present when the Rotary Club was first formed in Haliburton and became a charter member on March 2nd, 1944. He was on the Board of Education in 1945 and 1946 and was vice president in 1947. In 1948-49 he became the president of the club. Through the years he has been involved on numerous committees. He was chairman of Vocation Service 1944-45, chairman of Club Service 1945-46 and 1946-47, chairman of the Attendance Committee 1949-50 and Fellowship Chairman 1950-51. His real interest seemed to be with Crippled Children and he was chairman of that committee from 1963-70.

Mervyn was a member of the Association of Tourist Resorts of Ontario and Treasurer for many years. He was also treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce and in charge of sales of the Haliburton Tartan.

He was an ardent curler who loved the game and was a member of the Haliburton Curling Club right from when curling was started in the old Haliburton arena. He saw many changes as curling really took on in the village until the time the club built its own curling arena and he lived to see the day when the spanking new curling arena was officially opened. He skipped many rinks in the men's league and brought curling honours to the village on teams that he skipped at many local and out of town bonspiels.

He also had the honour of being one of the original members of the Dysart Area Planning Board along with his brother Jack Robertson, Frank Anderson and Bob Bishop Sr.

In 1967 he sold Wig-A-Mog Inn, retired to the home he had built on Head Lake, and enjoyed winters in Florida.

The community can ill afford to lose men of the calibre of Mervyn Robertson who played such a big part in local affairs and the Rotary Club has lost a sincere and dedicated member.

He was the beloved husband of Alice Mowat, dear father of Lyn Robertson of Toronto and Keith of Haliburton, and dear brother of Esther (Mrs. J. C. Mackey) of Bridgenorth and the late Holly, Jack, Violet, Hazel and Olive.

He rested at the Funeral Chapel of John Welch & Son Ltd., Minden after 2.00 p.m. Friday, for complete funeral service and committal in the Chapel on Saturday, September 16th at 1.00 p.m. Interment was at Ingoldsby Cemetery.

The Glamorgan Township Parks and Recreation Board expresses sincere appreciation to the 32 people and Riley the dog who participated in the Septemberfest Walk-A-Thon to raise money for the Park Fund and to all the others who donated their time and efforts to make Septemberfest a success

Yours very truly,

Elva V. Bates
Secretary,
Parks and Recreation Board.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

BY - LAW 77 - 15

CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF STANHOPE

The By-Law applies to the whole of the Corporation of the Township of Stanhope. The By-Law was passed by the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Stanhope, under the authority of Section 35 of The Planning Act, R.S.O. 1970, c. 349, as amended.

The general purpose of the By-Law is as follows:

- (1) to regulate the use of lands and the character, location and the use of all buildings and structures by specifying minimum lot areas, frontages, lot coverage, dwelling unit size, separation distances and similar concerns so as to produce areas of compatible characteristics;
- (2) to prohibit certain uses of land and the erection and use of certain buildings and structures thereon so as to provide protection for the residents against undesirable uses;
- (3) to prohibit the development of particular lands that would create an adverse effect on the Township or would jeopardize future orderly development and expansion.
- (4) to obtain public input and opinions from individuals owning lands in proximity to any area being proposed for a future change in zoning.

The provisions of the By-Law shall apply throughout all of the area within the Corporation of the Township of Stanhope and, after the approval of the By-Law, no land, building, structure, excavation, lot or premise shall be used or occupied, and no building, structure or excavation shall be erected, altered or made, in whole or in part, for any purpose except in conformity with the By-Law's provisions.

The By-Law divides the Corporation of the Township of Stanhope into various Land Use Categories (Zones) in accordance with Plate "A", Maps 1 and 2 of which there are approximately thirteen (13) Zones.

Plate "B" of the By-Law lists all of the uses and activities which are permitted in each of the Zone categories. Accessory buildings normally associated with the main use on the lot are also permitted. Generally, the permitted uses in each Zone are as follows:

OS OPEN SPACE ZONE	- recreational activities, conservation, boat launching and similar activities.
RU RURAL ZONE	- permanent homes, cottages, farms, parks, schools, churches and similar uses.
RE RURAL ESTATE ZONE	- permanent homes
RR RURAL RESIDENTIAL ZONE	- permanent homes
HR HAMLET RESIDENTIAL ZONE	- permanent homes, converted homes, boarding or lodging homes, parks, churches, schools and similar uses.
SR SHORELINE RESIDENTIAL ZONE	- permanent homes, cottages, boat launching facilities, parks and churches.
MH MOBILE HOME ZONE	- mobile home
C1 HIGHWAY COMMERCIAL ZONE	- permanent home, convenience store, restaurant, hotel, marine, motel, service station and similar uses.
C2 GENERAL COMMERCIAL ZONE	- permanent home, assembly hall, bank, offices, convenience store, restaurant, medical clinic, service shops, retail stores and similar uses.
SC SEASONAL COMMERCIAL ZONE	- permanent home, boat storage, boat launching, assembly hall, camp, hotel, lodge, motel, private park, tourist facilities and similar uses.
M1 GENERAL INDUSTRIAL ZONE	- boat storage, builder's supply, contractor's yard, fuel storage, manufacturing plants, saw mill, workshop and similar uses.
M2 EXTRACTIVE INDUSTRIAL ZONE	- gravel pit, quarry, open storage.
M3 WASTE DISPOSAL INDUSTRIAL	- sanitary landfill, dump.

If the particular type of land use or Zone is of a residential nature, then reference should be made to Plate "C" for specific regulations and standards affecting residential uses.

If the particular type of land use or Zone is something other than residential, then reference should be made to Plate "D" for specific regulations and standards affecting non-residential uses.

In addition to land uses and regulations referred to above, certain conditions and provisions apply to all lots, buildings and structures, and these, together with definitions are found in Part III of the By-Law. It is strongly urged that every property owner examine the text and Plates of the By-Law to determine the status of his or her property and note how he or she is affected by the By-Law. The importance of checking the regulations affecting your property cannot be overemphasized.

Notwithstanding the foregoing statements, the By-Law shall not apply to prevent or hinder the continued use of any land, building, structure, excavation, lot or premise, which on the day of passing of this By-Law was legally used, erected or occupied for any purpose prohibited by the By-Law, so long as it continues to be used for that purpose.

Haliburton Highlights

The Haliburton Rotary Ann Luncheon will be held on Wednesday, September 27th. The guest speaker will be David M. Bishop, LL.B. His topic will be comments on Family Law Reform Act.

We thought that this joke taken from the Rotooter, the weekly bulletin put out by the Rotary Club of Haliburton, was well worth passing along to you.

Once two hunters got lost in the woods. The first hunter said, "Now, let's be calm." The second hunter agreed, "You're right, I have read that if you are lost, you should shoot three times into the air and someone will come and rescue you." So they did this and nothing happened. They tried it again and still no help came. They repeated this several times without results. Finally, the first hunter said, "What are we going to do now?" The second hunter replied, "I don't know; we're almost out of arrows."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thank you for the note in the recent issue of your newspaper noting my speaking at the Rotary Club. As usual, I find them a very responsible and enjoyable group of people to have the privilege of speaking to.

At the same time in your article you noted that our services from St. Andrew's here in Kitchener are telecast each week over CKCO TV 13, Channel 11. We, in fact, share are telecast with St. Peter's Lutheran Church, which is just across the street from us here in Kitchener. St. Andrew's is on each first and third Sundays of the month - St. Peter's, the second and fourth Sundays of each month. Those months with five Sundays are divided evenly between the two churches.

We at St. Andrew's and St. Peter's feel it a real privilege to be able to broadcast on a regular basis this unique for of religious television. To the best of our knowledge no other station in Canada or the United States carries, on a regular basis, the Sunday morning services of two churches, thereby permitting people to participate in a regular Sunday morning service or worship on television. St. Peter's and St. Andrew's have shared this privilege for more than fourteen years now in the Kitchener-Waterloo area and we are indeed grateful to CKCO Television for the opportunity of doing so.

I thought you might be interested in the actual dates of broadcasting and the brief background to our telecasts. Once again, thank you for your kind remarks. I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Rev. Grant R. MacDonald
Minister

Trent-Severn

Buckhorn, received about 180 mm of rain over the month. This precipitation, combined with low evaporation, resulted in a drop of less than 7% in the reservoir storage over the month.

On September 5, the storage amounted to 63.8% after heavier flows were drawn for a week. This figure is more in line with the September 1st average storage since 1970, of 60.0%.

Kawartha levels are holding near maxima, with the Otonabee River flowing at 38 to 40 cubic metres per second (cms). The long term average flow for September is 34 cms.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching level is now close to its curve value of 218.83. Flow from it down the Severn is 25.5 cubic metres per second. The September average flow is 21.5 cms.
